Military Coup Talk Heard On Eve Of Viet Elections

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's presidential election campaign ended today in apathy, terrorist raids and reports of a military coup attempt as the Viet Cong offered its own political and economic program for the nation on the eve of Sunday's voting.

Intelligence sources said the possibility of a coup attempt underlay the house arrest of South Vietnamese Col. Pham Van Lieu on charges of working for the election of a civilian candidate. It was not known, they said, if the alleged plot had reached the stage of planning or alliances.

Lieu's seizure and continued terrorist shootings and grenade blasts brought new uneasiness to the election that has been called both a brave venture in democracy and a fraud. Besides a president and vice president, the nation's 5.8 million registered voters will choose a 60-member Senate.

Voting at the 8,808 polling places begins at 7 a.m. Sunday and ends at 4 p.m.

While apathy showed in the turnout of only 3,000 persons for a final public campaign rally in Saigon Friday night, the Communists—banned from running in the election— used Hanoi Radio to beam promises of what will happen if they come to power, including land for the peasants.

Most of South Vietnam's men in arms and American and allied forces were assigned to guard polling places and known terrorist routes. They were joined in rice paddies and villages by observers from 24 nations, including 22 Americans dispatched by President Johnson.

The military leaders, Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, 44, and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, 36, were strong favorites to win the races for president and vice president. None of the 10 civilian tickets appeared able to match the support of the men who have been running the country for two years.

Three civilian presidential candidates nursed hopes of an upset if the voting is honest—and they have charged it is unlikely to be.

The most formidable outsider is former Premier Tran Van Huong. Other candidates with substantial followings are Pan Khac Suu, speaker of the Constituent Assembly which wrote South Vietnam's Constitution, and Ha Thuc Ky, who commands strength among some Buddhists and in the North. Ky is no relation to Premier Ky.

Campaigning officially ended at noon today, 19 hours before the polls open.

Lieu, a former head of the national police, was accused of working for Suu, intelligence said. But they emphasized that the charges apparently involved officers who feared a purge by the military government.

The sources reported a number of officers, including five generals, were marked for removal by Thieu in a planned house-cleaning he announced last week.

The Viet Cong pressed their harassment tactics with new grenade attacks in Saigon that included a dud thrown in the billet of an American general. Two Americans were shot, one fatally.

Communist mines blew up a bus on a coastal highway, killing 16 civilians and wounding 33, while in the northern provinces the Viet Cong were reported to have kidnaped at least 200 villagers in the last few days.

American servicemen were warned of a terrorist plan to distribute booby-trapped cigarette lighters.

Hits At LBJ On Choice Of Targets

'Playing Numbers Game,' Thurmond Claims Of Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond contends President Johnson is playing "a numbers game" in saying he's authorized U.S. bombing of six of every seven North Vietnamese targets recommended by military leaders.

"It is more than just the number of targets authorized for strike that is important," the South Carolina Republican said. "The choice of the targets is the important thing, and that is where the bone of contention lies."

Johnson's statement at a Friday news conference also drew fire from Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, who said: "The one in seven not authorized would, in many cases, be worth far more than the six authorized."

Miller and Thurmond are members of the Senate military preparedness subcommittee, which strongly criticized the administration's bombing policies in a unanimous report issued Thursday.

Johnson responded to the panel's assertions at the news conference, and took particular care to downgrade reports of sharp policy differences between he and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on the one hand, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff on the other.

"There's no deep division" in policy on bombing of North Vietnam, said the President. "There are no quarrels, no antagonisms."

Miller said later that could mean only that targets recommended by the Joint Chiefs have won Presidential approval.

But Johnson gave no hint of such action.

He said of 350 potential North Vietnamese targets recommended by the Joint Chiefs, about 300—or six of seven—have been authorized. Most of the others, said Johnson, are in strategic areas including the Port of Haiphong, Hanoi and a buffer zone near the Red Chinese border.

In its report, the Senate subcommittee said air raids to close or cripple the Port of Haiphong are high on the target priority list of the Joint Chiefs.

Miller said the port and other targets ruled off limits by the administration are considered by the Joint Chiefs to be "worth more than hundreds of others" Johnson already has cleared.

Thurmond said that while the White House has cleared some new targets in recent weeks, "Other crucial targets remain sanctuaries, and until they are listed as authorized targets, discord will continue within the administration."

The South Carolina Republican, an Air Force Reserve major general, dismissed Johnson's account as "a numbers game" devised by McNamara.

Both Thurmond and Miller, a brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve, spoke in statements prepared for the Associated Press.

Hurricane Rips Village, 5 Killed And 2 Missing

SAN FELIPE, Mexico (AP)—Five Americans were reported killed and two Mexican girls were missing and feared dead early today after Hurricane Katrina lashed this Baja California fishing village.

Winds of 96 miles an hour and pouring rain ripped through San Felipe, a resort town of 15,000.

The hurricane had spun a twisting west-to-east path across unpopulated sections of the peninsula 175 miles wide. Reports of its ferocity were meager.

Outside communication was cut off, except for an occasional brief ham radio operator's report.

The five Americans, unidentified, were reported killed when winds bowled over a car in which they were riding. The girls were said to have been swept to sea.

Rescue equipment from Mexicali, on the U.S. border 125 miles north of San Felipe, and a column of Mexican soldiers were reported bogged down on the roads trying to reach the scene. The Red Cross was also trying to get in.

Many Americans, especially from California, had reportedly already reached the popular fishing spot for the Labor Day weekend, U.S. Counsel Arthur Feldmann said at Mexicali.

Alfredo Lopez Gutierrez, assistant director of the Baja California Department of Tourism, said he lost radio contact with San Felipe but learned they needed help with water and other supplies.

Weather Looks Good During The Holiday

While it may be more chilly than some like, the weather outlook in general is most favorable for the Labor Day holiday.

The forecast says it will be fair tonight and Sunday, with temperatures rising slightly tomorrow.

Not much change is due tonight, with the low ranging between 45 and 53.

It was 49 in downtown East Liverpool at 6 a.m. today. Friday morning at the same time it was 45.

Arabs Agree To Permit Oil To Flow Anew

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) The Arab chiefs, bowing to a somewhat moderate policy, agreed Friday to start Arab oil flowing to the West again and use the revenues to build up strength, while refusing to consider negotiations with Israel.

Nothing said or done at the four-day Arab summit conference at this city on the Nile however, threatened immediately to push Israeli troops off conquered soil in Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

An editorial in Israel's pro-government Jerusalem Post meanwhile, implied that the west bank of the Jordan River, captured from Jordan in the June war, is now considered part of Israel. And the Israelis have pledged never to give up the captured Old City of Jerusalem.

The summit conference unanimously decided that all foreign bases must be eliminated from Arab soil. Such bases are currently maintained by the United States, Britain and France.

Negotiations Continue In Bid For Auto Peace

UAW Plans Ford Action As Pattern

Less Than 5 Days Remain Until End Of Present Accord

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Bargaining for an automotive labor agreement went into the stretch today as the United Auto Workers union pushed towards a contract with the Ford Motor Co. that could be used as a pattern in the rest of the industry.

Less than five days remain before current three-year pacts covering some 650,000 workers at the Big Three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—expire at Wednesday midnight.

Negotiations at Ford resumed at 10 a.m. and at cGM and Chrysler an hour later.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, led his bargainers into the union's target, Ford, at 9 p.m. Friday, but the session ended two hours later with both sides reporting little progress.

Reuther said, when he announced Ford as the target, that if no contract is reached by the deadline the UAW will strike all Ford plants.

Ford employs some 160,000 UAW members at its 45 manufacturing plants, 17 assembly plants and 39 parts depots in 27 states.

Among the top items on what the union calls its "longest and most ambitious list of demands" are a substantial pay boost, some form of guaranteed annual income and equal pay for American and Canadian workers.

The union has rejected the companies' first offers, which included an hourly wage hike of 13 cents to be improved by 2.8 per cent each year.

The average worker now makes about $3.41 in straight time wages, but this figure has been put as high as $4.70 when fringe benefits are included.

Reuther said it was "reason-

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Husbands, take note.

A new record was set Friday in the rolling pin throw at the Allegheny County Fair.

Mrs. Dee Wilden of Mount Lebanon, who refuses to give her age—saying only that she's over 30 — won the first round of the local preliminaries with a toss of 111-feet, 1 inch.

"I never saw anything like it," said James Moore, a fair official. "She throws it like a softball — underhanded. I don't think anyone's going to beat her."

Mrs. Wilden's husband said he hopes she doesn't try to practice around the house.

"Maybe I'd better leave home," he said with a laugh.

Priest Again Arrested In Disturbance

Rally Slated Today At Milwaukee After Second Night Of Marching

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Police, caught in a barrage of bottles and bricks minutes after cracking down on a forbidden civil rights march Friday night, rushed a Roman Catholic school yard and showered it with tear gas.

The police sweep that sent tear gas filtering into the buildings of St. Boniface parish climaxed a night of racial tension that resulted in 13 injuries and 14 arrests. A spectator collapsed and died of natural causes, authorities said.

Among those arrested was the Rev. James E. Groppi, a white assistant pastor at St. Boniface, a parish in the heart of the Inner Core, where most of Milwaukee's 86,000 Negroes live.

Father Groppi, who led the attempted march from St. Boniface, is adviser to the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

It was the second straight night in which the priest was arrested and the third night in which police have broken up a youth council demonstration that defied a ban by Mayor Henry Maier.

The ban on nighttime demonstrations, originally in effect for 30 days, was declared Wednesday after two nights of violence that accompanied youth council marches into masses of heckling whites on the predominantly Polish South Side. The mayor decided Friday to lift the ban beginning at 9 a.m. today.

The tension is expected to reach a climax with a rally today that Father Groppi said may attract the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Negro comedian Dick Gregory; Floyd McKissick, head of the Congress of Racial Equality, and H. Rap Brown, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

No decision has been made as to where they would march but trouble is expected if they decided to return to South Side.

Friday night's march toward youth council headquarters, destroyed by fire Tuesday night, began after a delay of more than four hours while lawyers tried is vain to get a temporary restraining order blocking the mayor's ban.

"We're going to walk in our black neighborhhod and no power on earth is going to stop us," said Father Groppi to the demonstrators assembled inside the playground. "They'll have to kill us to stop us."

Police began massing at the end of the street as the marchers filed out of the playground. Police, advancing in a solid phalanx, met the demonstration head on and stopped it, using their nightsticks.

One Negro was thrown onto the fender of a car and disappeared under a pile of blue uniforms. Another was thrown to the ground. "Get the handcuffs on him!" a policeman shouted.

Other demonstrators sat down on the lawn of North Division High School, adjacent to the parish.

The air bristled with cries. Soon the rocks and bottles began flying out of the darkness—seemingly from all directions. Police ducked behind their cars.

The Rev. Michael T. Neuberger said the bottles didn't come from the church grounds. "I don't know where they were coming from but it certainly wasn't from here," he said. "The people over here were just standing, watching."

Police Chief Harold A. Breier said he arrived after the tear gas was fired. He had no comment on the police action.

But, the chief said, "you can't violate the law. You can't defy authority."

Father Groppi saw solace in the tear gas. "That tear gas did us a lot of good," he said. "When people suffer together, it unites them."

Steel Price Boost Due To Stand

NEW YORK (AP) — A price increase in steel bars appeared all but certain to stand today with most of the major producers having joined in the hike despite a Johnson administration plea for restraint.

President Johnson told a Washington news conference Friday that he regretted very much the companies' decision to raise prices but he did not indicate that he planned to do anything about it.

At almost the same time, Bethlehem Steel Corp., No. 2 producer, and Inland Steel Co., No. 4, announced they were raising prices on bars. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., No. 5, and Armco Steel Corp. and Kaiser Steel Corp. followed suit shortly thereafter.

The price ball was started rolling by Republic Steel Corp., No. 3, on Wednesday. United States Steel Corp., No. 1, joined in the hike Thursday despite criticism of the raise by Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

"Steel is our single most important industrial material," Ackley said Thursday. "General stability of industrial prices is difficult to achieve if steel prices are rising."

At his news conference Friday the President was asked his reaction to the price increases in the face of Ackley's urging Johnson replied: "Mr. Ackley expressed the viewpoint of the administration on that. We regret very much that the companies felt it necessary to take the action they did. We expressed our view as strongly as we could in our recommendations."

The steel firms all blamed rising costs for the increase of $3 a ton or 1.8 per cent. Steel bars are used in a variety of end products from industrial fasteners to railroad car axles.

Last August, Ackley called increases by the steel industry "inflationary" but he did not use that term in his statement Thursday, saying instead that the latest hikes are "distressing."

Steel Price Boost Due To Stand

NEW YORK (AP) — A price increase in steel bars appeared all but certain to stand today with most of the major producers having joined in the hike despite a Johnson administration plea for restraint.

President Johnson told a Washington news conference Friday that he regretted very much the companies' decision to raise prices but he did not indicate that he planned to do anything about it.

At almost the same time, Bethlehem Steel Corp., No. 2 producer, and Inland Steel Co., No. 4, announced they were raising prices on bars. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., No. 5, and Armco Steel Corp. and Kaiser Steel Corp. followed suit shortly thereafter.

The price ball was started rolling by Republic Steel Corp., No. 3, on Wednesday. United States Steel Corp., No. 1, joined in the hike Thursday despite criticism of the raise by Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

"Steel is our single most important industrial material," Ackley said Thursday. "General stability of industrial prices is difficult to achieve if steel prices are rising."

At his news conference Friday the President was asked his reaction to the price increases in the face of Ackley's urging

Johnson replied: "Mr. Ackley expressed the viewpoint of the administration on that. We regret very much that the companies felt it necessary to take the action they did. We expressed our view as strongly as we could in our recommendations."

The steel firms all blamed rising costs for the increase of $3 a ton or 1.8 per cent. Steel bars are used in a variety of end products from industrial fasteners to railroad car axles.

Last August, Ackley called increases by the steel industry "inflationary" but he did sot use that term in his statement Thursday, saying instead that the latest hikes are "distressing."

$50,000 Sought For '65 Mishap

The defendants are Edward E. Novotny of Youngstown, one of the drivers; Donald A. Curran of East Liverpool RD 1, another driver, and Donald K. Croxall of Lisbon St., East Liverpool MC 22, owner of the car Curran was driving.

Miller said he was a passenger in a northbound sedan driven by Joseph Sines and that Novotny, southbound, drove left of center and hit Sines' auto. Curran, also northbound, ran into the rear of Sines' car an instant after the first collision, Miller said.

Army Orders More Of Criticized Rifle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fast-firing M16 rifle, highly criticized for its reputed tendency to jam during Vietnam combat action in Vietnam, was given a stamp of approval Friday by the Army when it ordered another $25 million worth.

Under the new contract, the Colt Co. will produce another 245,716 of the weapons. It has already manufactured 704,357 M16s for the Defense Department.

The Army this week said inadequate cleaning and maintenance were behind complaints the weapon is unreliable.

Increased troop training in rifle upkeep and a redesigned chamber are making the M16 a completely satisfactory weapon, the Army said.

They Are Men Without A Country

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A handful of Baltic diplomats whose homelands were swallowed behind the Iron Curtain more than a quarter century ago still are doing business in the United States.

They are the envoys from Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia—states over-run by the Soviet Union in 1940 while Nazi Germany was marching against the West.

To this day the U.S. government refuses to recognize the Soviet annexation of the Baltic lands, and both the executive branch and Congress periodically encourage the Baltic missions here to keep their flags flying.

As a result, the Baltic diplomatic establishments carry on with the full protocol rights accorded other foreign government representatives in the United States—even though they have in fact no foreign government to represent.

Headquartered in Washington are the Lativan legation, run by Dr. Arnolds Spekke, accredited as minister plenipotentiary and charge d'affairs since 1954, and the Lithuanian legation headed by Joseph Kajeckas, charge d'affairs since 1957.

A legation is a foreign mission with a diplomatic rank just below that of an embassy. Lithuania also has consulates in Chicago and New York.

The Baltic missions can keep going indefinitely—at a modest level— on income from funds which their home governments had in the United States at the time of the Soviet takeover. The State Department supervises their expenditures to guard against extravagencies.

And with sizeable constituencies of Baltic minorities scattered about the United States, the envoys report they have considerable work to do even though their duties no longer include normal diplomatic traffic with home foreing ministries.

"We're doing all the obligations of legations except trade," said Dr. Spekke in an interview.

Spekke listed translation of documents for his countrymen here, estate matters and publication and information work among his legation's principal activities.

Spekke—courtly, white-haired and goateed—and his colleagues often are called on for speech-making or attendance at ceremonies involving Baltic groups.

Kajeckas, who has been in the Lithuanian diplomatic service since 1929, lists Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Boston as main centers of Lithuanian settlement in the United States.

ACCORDING to the U.S. Census Bureau, the 1960 count showed 6,972 foreign-born Latvians in this country, along with 2,378 Estonians and 6,594 Lithuanians.

The Census Bureau estimates at 892,000 the total Baltic-derivitive population in the United States.

On the question of whether their nations ever will regain independence, the envoys keep a chins-up attitude, claiming the tide of history is on their side.

"Nationalism is a driving force all over the world," says Spekke. "Its just an inevitable thing—in due course the oppressed will govern themselves."

Kajeckas says in a similar vein: "If you keep the aspiration alive, sooner or later the time will come."

In Pittsburgh Speech

Goldwater Warns Soviet Could Be Tops Militarily

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Barry Goldwater said Friday night it's possible for Russia to gain military superiority over the United States and "my concern is what will happen to us if Russia gets the superiority."

The former Arizona senator and 1964 Republican presidential nominee told the Young Americans for Freedom convention, "I think we're beginning to learn that the enemy we face respects only one thing--power."

He said this nation's megaton capacity is declining while Russia's is increasing. Concentrating his words on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Goldwater said:

"Now I know the secretary will say, 'Well, we have more missiles,'--But we don't. They actually have more missiles than we do today. They don't have more intercontinental ballistic missiles, but they have more missiles."

"We have every reason to believe," he added, "that Russia may be able to put a weapon into space, or she may already have one there."

Goldwater got a rousing reception from the audience of about 1,000, most of them conservative — minded college students attending the Young Americans convention.

Jammed into a hotel ballroom, they greeted Goldwater with a standing ovation and chanted "We Want Barry, We Want Barry." Here and there in the crowd, a delegate waved a "Goldwater for President" sign.

Although his speech had been billed in advance as a major speech on Vietnam, he talked only briefly about the war in Southeast Asia. Destroying the docks at Haiphong, he said, would deny supplies to North Vietnam and bring an end to the conflict in sight.

Turning to politics, he said the 1968 political convention year would see fights in the Republican and Democratic parties and also in the "Bobby Kennedy left."

You And The Law

"I've come to take back that table saw," the man told Charlie. "You are way behind on the payments."

"Phooy, Try and take it," Charlie retorted, as he sat on the saw's metal frame.

Without a word, the man picked up Charlie by the scruff of the neck, jerked him off the table and preceeded to remove the table saw. A dazed Charlie looked on as the saw was hauled away.

CHARLIE SUED the company for damages. "The man had no right to toss me around like that," Charlie said. The court agreed and awarded Charlie damages. It was ruled that even though the company had a perfect right to take the machine, because Charlie was behind in his payments, it did not have the right to use such force.

Generally, in most conditional sales contracts — monthly installments, etc., — the legal title to the item remains with the seller until the final payment is made. If the buyer fails to live up to the contract — defaults — the seller can repossess the item. But there are some restrictions on the way it may be taken back.

Violent means are not allowed, even if the contract specifically authorizes such strongarm tactics. Most courts take a dim view of such practices. In addition, there can be no forcible entry on the part of the repossessor to get the item back. In otherwords, if the finance company wants the sofa back, they can't break down the door of your home to get it. They could be held liable for damages.

HOWEVER, use of what might be termed fair means of repossession are perfectly legal.

Suppose you fall way behind on your car payments. The finance company could legally tow it away — repossess it — if they found it on a public street. Such an action doesn't involve any trespass or violent action — just a tow truck an alert employe of the finance company.

$400,000 Fire Rips Through Warehouse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A stubborn fire raged out of control Friday at a plastics company warehouse in the Linden area, blanketing the area with acrid smoke and felling several firemen.

President Richard Zimmerman of the Plastex Co. estimated damage to his warehouse at $400,000 and said it could go higher when the inventory was checked.

Four firemen were treated at Riverside Hospital for inhalation of the highly toxic smoke.

Another 20 firemen were given oxygen at the scene as a 100-man force from five departments battled the fire for about five hours.

A legation is a foreign mission with a diplomatic rank just below that of an embassy. Lithuania also has consulates in Chicago and New York.

The Baltic missions can keep going indefinitely—at a modest level— on income from funds which their home governments had in the United States at the time of the Soviet takeover. The State Department supervises their expenditures to guard against extravagencies.

And with sizeable constituencies of Baltic minorities scattered about the United States, the envoys report they have considerable work to do even though their duties no longer include normal diplomatic traffic with home foreing ministries.

"We're doing all the obligations of legations except trade," said Dr. Spekke in an interview.

Spekke—courtly, white-haired and goateed—and his colleagues often are called on for speech-making or attendance at ceremonies involving Baltic groups.

Kajeckas, who has been in the Lithuanian diplomatic service since 1929, lists Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Boston as main centers of Lithuanian settlement in the United States.

ACCORDING to the U.S. Census Bureau, the 1960 count showed 6,972 foreign-born Latvians in this country, along with 2,378 Estonians and 6,594 Lithuanians.

The Census Bureau estimates at 892,000 the total Baltic-derivitive population in the United States.

On the question of whether their nations ever will regain independence, the envoys keep a chins-up attitude, claiming the tide of history is on their side.

"Nationalism is a driving force all over the world," says Spekke. "Its just an inevitable thing—in due course the oppressed will govern themselves."

Kajeckas says in a similar vein: "If you keep the aspiration alive, sooner or later the time will come."

$400,000 Fire Rips Through Warehouse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A stubborn fire raged out of control Friday at a plastics company warehouse in the Linden area, blanketing the area with acrid smoke and felling several firemen.

President Richard Zimmerman of the Plastex Co. estimated damage to his warehouse at $400,000 and said it could go higher when the inventory was checked.

Four firemen were treated at Riverside Hospital for inhalation of the highly toxic smoke.

Goldwater Warns Soviet Could Be Tops Militarily

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Barry Goldwater said Friday night it's possible for Russia to gain military superiority over the United States and "my concern is what will happen to us if Russia gets the superiority."

The former Arizona senator and 1964 Republican presidential nominee told the Young Americans for Freedom convention, "I think we're beginning to learn that the enemy we face respects only one thing--power."

He said this nation's megaton capacity is declining while Russia's is increasing. Concentrating his words on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Goldwater said:

"Now I know the secretary will say, 'Well, we have more missiles,'--But we don't. They actually have more missiles than we do today. They don't have more intercontinental ballistic missiles, but they have more missiles."

"We have every reason to believe," he added, "that Russia may be able to put a weapon into space, or she may already have one there."

Goldwater got a rousing reception from the audience of about 1,000, most of them conservative — minded college students attending the Young Americans convention.

Jammed into a hotel ballroom, they greeted Goldwater with a standing ovation and chanted "We Want Barry, We Want Barry." Here and there in the crowd, a delegate waved a "Goldwater for President" sign.

Although his speech had been billed in advance as a major speech on Vietnam, he talked only briefly about the war in Southeast Asia. Destroying the docks at Haiphong, he said, would deny supplies to North Vietnam and bring an end to the conflict in sight.

Turning to politics, he said the 1968 political convention year would see fights in the Republican and Democratic parties and also in the "Bobby Kennedy left."

AICHACH, Germany (AP) — Ilse Koch, once known as the Bitch of Buchenwald for mistreatment of concentration camp inmates, committed suicide in prison early today, an official at the Bavarian Women's Prison said.

He reported Mrs. Koch, 60, hanged herself in her cell and was discovered by a guard who brought her breakfast.

Mrs. Koch had spent 20 years in prison, first under a U. S. war crimes sentence and since 1951 under a German life sentence for instigation of murder and cruelty to concentration camp inmates. She was held in the women's prison in this town near Augsburg.

Meanwhile, a National Transportation Safety Board hearing into the tragedy wound up at Oberlin after two days of testimony. Thomas McDill who conducted the hearing for the safety board, said it will be several months before any findings are made public.

You And The Law

"I've come to take back that table saw," the man told Charlie. "You are way behind on the payments."

"Phooy, Try and take it," Charlie retorted, as he sat on the saw's metal frame.

Without a word, the man picked up Charlie by the scruff of the neck, jerked him off the table and preceeded to remove the table saw. A dazed Charlie looked on as the saw was hauled away.

CHARLIE SUED the company for damages. "The man had no right to toss me around like that," Charlie said. The court agreed and awarded Charlie damages. It was ruled that even though the company had a perfect right to take the machine, because Charlie was behind in his payments, it did not have the right to use such force.

Generally, in most conditional sales contracts — monthly installments, etc., — the legal title to the item remains with the seller until the final payment is made. If the buyer fails to live up to the contract — defaults — the seller can repossess the item. But there are some restrictions on the way it may be taken back.

Violent means are not allowed, even if the contract specifically authorizes such strongarm tactics. Most courts take a dim view of such practices. In addition, there can be no forcible entry on the part of the repossessor to get the item back. In otherwords, if the finance company wants the sofa back, they can't break down the door of your home to get it. They could be held liable for damages.

HOWEVER, use of what might be termed fair means of repossession are perfectly legal.

Suppose you fall way behind on your car payments. The finance company could legally tow it away — repossess it — if they found it on a public street. Such an action doesn't involve any trespass or violent action — just a tow truck an alert employe of the finance company.

Scare On Cat

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — What do you do when the family cat wants to have the family parakeet for lunch: Buy a scare crow. That's what Andy Savage did when his car kept eye - balling the new parakeet. Savage said the two fake crows and a plastic owl did a great job of scaring off the cat.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I darken light tan-leather articles, such as belts, shoes, and the like?

A.—By rubbing with a cloth dipped in ammonia. This produces a deep, brown finish. Be sure, however, to apply uniformly so as to avoid any spottiness in your finished job.

Q.—How can I produce an attractive high polish on apples, oranges, pears, and other such fruits I am using for a centerbowl on my table?

A.—By using a good grade of salad oil. Saturate a small cloth with the oil and rub over the surfaces of the fruits, then buff with a dry cloth. Your fruits will glisten beautifully, and they'll last longer.

Q. — How can I clean woodpaneled walls that are finished with wax?

A. — These seldom need more than dusting. If, however, they are beginning to look dry and grimy, clean with liquid wax on a soft cloth, buff them, and then apply a fresh coating of wax. Rub the panels with another soft cloth until a dry fingertip will not leave a mark.

Q. — How can I remove small patches of rust from polished metals and tools?

A. — Try rubbing over these spots with a hard typewriter eraser. The fine grit content of these erasers will usually polish out the rust, but will not damage the metal finish.

The rat can live longer without water than any other mammal.

LBJ Praises Labor Stand On Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson praised the labor movement today for generally avoiding violence while acting to improve conditions of the worker.

In an apparent reference to summer rioting and the cries of militant civil rights leaders, the President said "there are always some who glorify violence as the mid wife of progress" and who mistakenly "equate hatred with determination, force with justice."

American labor, he declared in his annual Labor Day message, "learned early that violence is the sure road to disaster" and organized "not to destroy, but to demand a part of the American dream."

3 Suffer Injuries As Auto Wrecks

Three were injured Friday night in a one-car accident on Route 7 outside the Wellsville city limits.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the woman was southbound in the passing lane when an unidentified auto pulled out, forcing the car across the highway and off the left side of the road.

Two passengers in the auto were treated in the mishap. They were Gypsie Miles, 45, and Jane Miles, 20, both of 1800 Anderson Blvd. An investigation is continuing.

House Restored

BRUNSWICK, Maine (AP) — A private concern is restoring to its original appearance the house where Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The novel was credited with crystalizing opinion just before the Civil War. A $400,000 motel is being erected behind the Stowe house, a far cry from Uncle Tom's place.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: A good way to comb real or nylon hair pieces and wigs is with a wire dog brush! Then use a dog comb!

BEVERLY BAKER.

Well, I'm amazed. It really works!

I found it was far easier to comb the wig if I did it in my bathroom after a hot shower when there was some steam in the air. The steam also keeps the hair from flying around. It is especially good to wait until the bathroom gets REAL steamy and then go in and set your wig.

Also, it's much handier if you get out your "plumber's friend," put it on the floor and stick the wig block on it. The hole in the bottom of the block exactly fits on the wooden handle of the "plumber's friend."

If you put both feet on the rubber part of our "friend", then resetting your wit is as easy as falling off a log 'cause you can use both hands and easily turn the wig around as needed.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: When sewing on snap fasteners, sew on the pointed half first. Then rub chalk or colored pencil on the point. Press the point on the spot where the other half of the snap is to be sewn.

The tiny chalk mark will show you where to sew the other side of the snap.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: I had been using the seat belt in our car as a weight watcher. Then one day I noticed the belt was extremely tight and naturally assumed I had been putting on pounds!

I starved myself for a week before realizing my husband had moved the car seat forward!

DEAR HELOISE: When I bake pie shells I always use glass pie plates — mainly because they're heavy and I can see when the crust is exactly the shade of golden brown that I want.

I cook the ones for whipped cream toppings a little darker than for meringues, which need additional baking time.

ALBERTA P.

By placing the crust in one glass pie plate, and putting another one on top before baking, I have absolutely no shrunken, out-of-shape crust for the filing. Perfect every time. Absolutely great.

Adult Basic Education Work To Be Resumed In Hancock

Classes in Adult Basic Education will be resumed in Hancock County this month.

They are intended to provide instruction "in the basic elements of education for persons who have been unable to complete their high school education." Stress will be given to assistance in arithmetic, reading and written expression.

Such classes are an initial step in progress toward the achievement of a high school equivalency diploma. The diploma is recognized in many areas as evidence of a high school education, to qualify for employment or college admission.

This equivalency diploma may be obtained by passing the test of General Educational Development. Those seeking additional information on this test may contact Weir Senior High School.

Classes will meet two evenings each week for three hours per session. Registration may be made by phoning 748-7400 and giving the receptionist your name, address and telephone number.

There is no fee and participation is not limited to Hancock County residents. Any person seeking help in the study of these basic elements in learning is welcomed to attend, the supervisors said.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I darken light tan-leather articles, such as belts, shoes, and the like?

A.—By rubbing with a cloth dipped in ammonia. This produces a deep, brown finish. Be sure, however, to apply uniformly so as to avoid any spottiness in your finished job.

Q.—How can I produce an attractive high polish on apples, oranges, pears, and other such fruits I am using for a centerbowl on my table?

A.—By using a good grade of salad oil. Saturate a small cloth with the oil and rub over the surfaces of the fruits, then buff with a dry cloth. Your fruits will glisten beautifully, and they'll last longer.

Q. — How can I clean wood-paneled walls that are finished with wax?

A. — These seldom need more than dusting. If, however, they are beginning to look dry and grimy, clean with liquid wax on a soft cloth, buff them, and then apply a fresh coating of wax. Rub the panels with another soft cloth until a dry fingertip will not leave a mark.

Q. — How can I remove small patches of rust from polished metals and tools?

A. — Try rubbing over these spots with a hard typewriter eraser. The fine grit content of these erasers will usually polish out the rust, but will not damage the metal finish.

The rat can live longer without water than any other mammal.

LBJ Praises Labor Stand On Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson praised the labor movement today for generally avoiding violence while acting to improve conditions of the worker.

In an apparent reference to summer rioting and the cries of militant civil rights leaders, the President said "there are always some who glorify violence as the mid wife of progress" and who mistakenly "equate hatred with determination, force with justice."

American labor, he declared in his annual Labor Day message, "learned early that violence is the sure road to disaster" and organized "not to destroy, but to demand a part of the American dream."

3 Suffer Injuries As Auto Wrecks

Three were injured Friday night in a one-car accident on Route 7 outside the Wellsville city limits.

In "fair" condition at City Hospital is Adeline Buzzard, 39, of 1300 Anderson Blvd., East Liverpool, who suffered a laceration of the forehead and a puncture wound of the left arm when her car went over a medial strip and into a utility pole.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the woman was southbound in the passing lane when an unidentified auto pulled out, forcing the car across the highway and off the left side of the road.

Two passengers in the auto were treated in the mishap. They were Gypsie Miles, 45, and Jane Miles, 20, both of 1800 Anderson Blvd. An investigation is continuing.

House Restored

BRUNSWICK, Maine (AP) — A private concern is restoring to its original appearance the house where Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The novel was credited with crystalizing opinion just before the Civil War. A $400,000 motel is being erected behind the Stowe house, a far cry from Uncle Tom's place.

DEAR HELOISE: A good way to comb real or nylon hair pieces and wigs is with a wire dog brush! Then use a dog comb!

BEVERLY BAKER.

Well, I'm amazed. It really works!

Here's something else I learned after trying this hint:

I found it was far easier to comb the wig if I did it in my bathroom after a hot shower when there was some steam in the air. The steam also keeps the hair from flying around. It is especially good to wait until the bathroom gets REAL steamy and then go in and set your wig.

Also, it's much handier if you get out your "plumber's friend," put it on the floor and stick the wig block on it. The hole in the bottom of the block exactly fits on the wooden handle of the "plumber's friend."

If you put both feet on the rubber part of our "friend", then resetting your wit is as easy as falling off a log 'cause you can use both hands and easily turn the wig around as needed.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: When sewing on snap fasteners, sew on the pointed half first. Then rub chalk or colored pencil on the point. Press the point on the spot where the other half of the snap is to be sewn.

The tiny chalk mark will show you where to sew the other side of the snap.

Adult Basic Education Work To Be Resumed In Hancock

Classes in Adult Basic Education will be resumed in Hancock County this month.

They are intended to provide instruction "in the basic elements of education for persons who have been unable to complete their high school education." Stress will be given to assistance in arithmetic, reading and written expression.

Such classes are an initial step in progress toward the achievement of a high school equivalency diploma. The diploma is recognized in many areas as evidence of a high school education, to qualify for employment or college admission.

This equivalency diploma may be obtained by passing the test of General Educational Development. Those seeking additional information on this test may contact Weir Senior High School.

Classes will meet two evenings each week for three hours per session. Registration may be made by phoning 748-7400 and giving the receptionist your name, address and telephone number.

There is no fee and participation is not limited to Hancock County residents. Any person seeking help in the study of these basic elements in learning is welcomed to attend, the supervisors said.

Long Dry Spell Teaches Lesson

The long drought in the northeast section of the United States is over. The U.S. Geological Survey has made it official.

For a time -- about five years, in fact — it looked as if Mother Nature was preparing this most densely populated region of the country for a permanent climatic change.

Now, except for a few isolated and localized pockets, the hydrologists report that reservoirs, streams and ground-water levels, in the Northeast have returned to normal, pre-1961 conditions.

The drought was not without its "redeeming virtues," says survey engineer Henry C. Barksdale. It taught many hydrologic lessons, spurred co-operation among federal, state and local authorities, resulted in better inventories of surface and ground water supplies and triggered actions or plans aimed at improvement of the development and management of water resources.

Not least, it brought about an awareness that water-supply problems are not necessarily just "water problems." Rather, they are frequently "people problems," requiring the assistasce of physical and social scientists, engineers, administrators and every citizen.

But water crises such as the northeast went through are never really solved, Barksdale points out.

The factors that caused the drought could occur again, and despite a healthy supply of water in many areas, it is barely adequate insurance against repetition of conditions that prevailed over the past few years.

The 1961-66 northeast drought was a test for all who have water resource responsibilities.

Much was learned from the experience, but we would be seriously remiss, he warns, if we failed to recognize the need for continued vigilance, for further studies and planning to minimize the probability of future water shortages.

That goes for most other sections of this growing, ever-more-water-hungry nation.

Averting A Future Tragedy

The National Transportation Safety Board's investigation of the skydiving tragedy in which 16 parachutists lost their lives will determine the future of the young sport.

The great loss of life will have a negative effect on the sport even though it has compiled a safety record better than some older ones that are played on the ground. Board action will answer the question: "Where do we go from here?"

It has shocked a public numb to far higher traffic fatality statistics, all the more so because it was an avoidable accident, a catastrophe compounded of human error and outright violation of federal aviation regulations.

The error was a faulty radar reading that placed the plane 10 miles off target and caused the parachutists to jump into Lake Erie. The violation was jumping through cloud cover.

A Federal Aviation Agency rule prohibits jumps in cloud conditions and stipulates that a pilot is not to permit anyone to make such a jump.

The board and FAA officials will sift testimony to come up with a ruling in the case.

They must determine if new regulations are needed — and if so — write them. If present regulations cover the situation, then they should be strictly enforced from now on.. Firm and immediate action would prevent future similar or worse tragedies while giving followers of the sport renewed confidence.

Russia Eyes Peking Grab

By Leon Denner

While the United States is watching Red China's political convulsions as a concerned observer, Russia is preparing to seize power in Peking.

Thousands of Soviet agents, many of them Red army officers on active duty, are reliably reported to be leading the anti-Mao insurgents in the rebellious provinces. More significant is increasing evidence that Moscow is already preparing the "legal ground" and "moral justification" for an invasion of China.

Premier Kosygin's ultimatum to Peking about the recent seizure of a Soviet freighter in the Chinese port of Dairen was only one indication of the Kremlin's plans.

Russian ships have been seized and their crews "insulted" in Dairen before. But the Russians veiled the incidents in diplomatic silence.

Why, then, Kosygin's sudden threat and ultimatum to Mao Tse-tung?

In the view of specialists on Communism, Moscow is beginning to pile up publicly enough grievances that would justify direct Soviet intervention in the Chinese civil war. This is an old Soviet policy that had been used effectively by Stalin in Poland, Romania and the Baltic countries.

Immediately after the Dairen incident Radio Moscow claimed that Mao's "accomplices" were openly attempting to change China's borders with Soviet Russia.

The radio charged that a textbook had been printed in Peking which included a map "showing certain Soviet territories" as belonging to China. It warned that any attempt by Mao to revise China's borders with Russia "carried the danger of serious military clashes."

The textbook and map have been in use in China for several years. But it is only in recent weeks that the Russians acknowledged their existence.

On Aug. 17, the Soviet government also charged in a protest note to Peking that the Chinese were engaged in a "hysterical anti-Soviet campaign" aimed at severing the few surviving threads of Soviet-Chinese diplomatic relations.

This was another case of Communist diplomatic doubletalk. It was merely confirmation of the fact that Moscow, to speed up Mao's fall, was considering a break in diplomatic relations with China.

According to Russian communications media, fighting between Chinese loyal to Mao and his opponents "is nearing Peking." A secret Soviet radio that broadcasts in various Chinese dialects also reported the emergence of a new anti-Mao army called "Independent Division." It includes security troops and officers "who have now joined the resistance movement against Mao Tse-tung.'

Is this "Independent Division" actually a pro-Soviet army staffed with Russian officers that will spearhead the attack on Peking?

There is no longer any doubt that the Soviet Union has pinned its hopes on a post-Mao China. Because of their vital interest in the survival of a Communist regime in Peking the Kremlin leaders are taking no chances.

They are even grooming a dead man as a true Chinese "revolutionary hero" to replace Mao. He is Kao Kang, a former Chinese duputy premier, who was purged by Mao in 1954.

Even as late as 1960, Kao Kang was described by the Russian Encyclopaedia as "a conspirator whose aim was to split the Communist party of China and seize the leadership." This was Mao's official reason for purging Kao Kang.

Now Soviet propaganda depicts Kao as a revolutionary martyr "who was arrested by Mao Tse-tung on false charges and died in prison under most unclear circumstances."

It is in the nature of Marxist-Leninists to cover up acts of aggression with an ideological slogan or symbol. Kao Kang is becoming the Russians' symbol and rallying cry in their efforts to destroy Mao.

This 'N That

The first English colony in America was established on Roanoke Island in 1585 and Virginia Dare, born there in 1857, was the first child of English parentage born in America.

The first Nobel prize in physics was awarded the German physicist, Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen (1845-1923) in 1901 for his discovery of X-rays. His achievement revolutionized medical and surgical techniques and provided new insights into the structure of the atom.

The first pouch of "international airmail" was flown March 3, 1919, from Seattle, Wash., to Vancouver, in Canada — a distance of only about 125 miles, but still "international."

During the "depression years" of the thirties, unemployment in the United States reached its peak in 1933 when 24.9 of the total labor force was out of work.

VICTOR RIESEL

Labor Revives Knighthood

LONDON: — The Queen's Prince Philip is a jolly good fellow and, as a trade unionist himself, gets on quite well with the labor movement. He pays his dues on time, stays in good standing technically and socially, even if not philosophically, inside labor.

Victor Riesel

So, some time ago the Trade Union Congress (TUC), the AFL-CIO of Britain, invited him over to sit around with its 36-man General Council one evening. It is reported that on his way into the modernistic lobby he noted a free-form, cubist piece of decoration and asked if it were a memorial to the unknown bricklayer.

When he got to the council chamber, he looked around the room at the British labor chiefs, many of them Socialists, and some of the left of that, and quipped:

"Im delighted to see so many working nights."

Knighthood never was more in flower than it was then in British labor — and is, today. There were many "Sirs" around the labor council table.

But it is even more "royal" now. There is a 12-man finance and general purposes committee of the General Council — sort of the equivalent to the AFL-CIO executive committee. Actually it runs the 9.5 million-member British labor movement.

On it are four lords, one knight, two Right Honorables (privy councillors, five commanders of the Order of the British Empire (C.B.E.), one Order of the British Empire (O.B.E.) and just one lonely "mister."

AFTER ALL, this is their government, and if Prime Minister Harold Wilson wants to suggest to Queen Elizabeth to title the proletariat, who is to say him nay. So there is Lord (Harry) Douglass president emeritus of the steelworkers; Lord Harold Collison, leader of the farm workers; Lord William Carron, head of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, an amalgam of auto and machine workers, and Lord Jack Cooper, of Stockton Heath, of the General and Municipal Workers.

The counterpart of the Teamsters' Frank Fitzsimmons is the Right Honorable Frank Cousins, a militant left-of-center head of Britain's biggest union, the 1.5 million-member Transport and General Workers Union. This makes him a privy councillor. So is George Woodcock, C.B.E., the TUC general secretary, George Meany's counterpart. How would the Right Honorable George Meany sound?

The knight is the lovable Sir Tom O'Brien, head of the theater and movie craft unions, once member of Parliament from Robin Hood's Nottingham Forest district.

Here they do not jest of these matters. They are proud of their titles. They are intensely loyal to their government. Agree with these Socialists or not, they love their country and rally to it, as they are doing now, when it is in trouble.

Theirs is a powerful movement, all the way from the giant Transport Workers, second largest in the free world, to the tiny 24-member London Jewish Bakers, who write their minutes in Hebrew.

These men know their nation is cliff-hanging over financial ruin. They know they now must export or die. They know that no one gets a slice if there is no pie.

So they talk of getting better working and living conditions instead of emphasizing higher and higher pay. At the moment they know that the pound will mean nothing if inflation wipes out its value.

They are teaching their followers that a day's work for a day's pay is what will save British industry and the nation's economy. Many of them were irritated when Prince Philip, this winter, protested that wherever he went, and wherever he tried to 'sell" his nation's products institutionally, he heard complaints of late deliveries and, sometimes, of inferior production. He said he was tired of it. In turn the Plasterer's Association accused him of coming from a class "which has always led a parasitic existence."

BUT MOST LABOR here knows that Prince Philip's reference to the indifference of many British production workers is correct. And such unions as the Electrical Trades Union — counterpart of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers — runs a college in Surrey on an estate which once belonged to a favorite lady of King Edward VII. To this labor university — where Pavlova once gave private performances — the union brings shop stewards and management people from such firms as Ford for long dialogues on how to improve the product, the Production techniques and the profit, as well as working conditions.

The movement grumbles, but for the most part backs the freeze on wages and prices.

No one wants to see a man lose his job, but it is better than losing one's nation. So official Labor Party policy will create a pool of 750,000 jobless by next winter.

This will cut down demand, installment buying and, therefore, prices and imports, and the hope is that the unemployed will go mobile and shift to areas where they are needed

So British labor may be led by Socialist lords — perhaps they really are not as socialist as they try to sound — but to them it is Britain first. They love their gallant jousting. For example, when they celebrate their centenary next June, they will use the Guild Hall right in the center of "The City," the financial heart of the United Kingdom.

And Queen Elizabeth will be there.

She now is only a symbol, but her presence will be British Labor's way of showing loyalty to their country -- a sentiment mighty scarce elsewhere in this unhappy vale of ours.

Purely Personal Observations

When I look at the grassed-over area where I used to raise garden truck, I remember the year I planted 50 tomatoes and bushels went to waste while other bushels went into cans that filled our basement for years, until they were too old to be used.

Something has slipped in a society whose high-priced artisans go on strike to get upward of three times as much additional an hour as many potential customers earn altogether in an hour.

Thistles are going to seed in Rosy Fingered Dawn, and it is fascinating to see hundreds and thousands of downy puffs borne on the wind, some to go hundreds of miles before finding a resting place.

I get a special buzz out of people who accuse other people of being un-American for doing the same things, like union members who say it is un-American for football players to use collective bargaining.

I have been telling people about a younger member of our family now in his second year of medical residency who says he and his associates are making less than [illegible] cents an hour for being doctors during the years between getting their MD degrees and hanging out shingles.

International affairs would be a lot more sensible if no one would listen to the preposterous lies of people who got knocked off while boasting of their preparations to knock off the Israelis. They cannot save face now by accusing their intended victims of not fighting fair.

I wish one of the big-shot economists advocating tax boosts would explain to me how the wage and price increases that would follow could do anything but make inflation worse instead of better.

If someone would invent a better lunch than the ones I have tried during my years of eating out at noontime, I would beat the world to their door.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Hands Tied

Civilian makers of military policy have deprived American forces of victory in Vietnam just as they did during the Korean war 16 years ago when the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously recommended the bombing of Red China's supply lines north of the Yalu river, only to be overruled.

This analysis is emerging from the hearings by the subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee of the Senate. While limited objectives have been chosen in the Vietnam war operations, limited methods of achieving those objectives have been imposed. The military commanders again have had their hands tied. Cumulative losses, it is estimated, have turned out to be larger than might have been the case if intensified attacks on all targets in North Vietnam had been allowed a year or more ago.

Basically the trouble is the inadequacy of the liaison between all of the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the President of the United States, who, under the Constitution, is given responsibility as Commander-In-Chief of the armed forces. There's no provision in the Constitution which permits the President to delegate to any cabinet secretary or to any other civilian official the power to make military decisions.

FOR MANY years past, during a war, presidents have had their military chieftains close at hand and have consulted with them almost every day. This is not true now. The present members of the joint chiefs, either as a group or individually, have rarely seen President Johnson alone in private conference.

The argument is made in rebuttal that any of the service chiefs of staff may see the President whenever they wish. But this means they must take the initiative. They usually feel compelled, moreover, to notify the secretary of defense. While, strictly speaking, they can seek conferences with the President, they are not likely to do so. Experience shows that, when the chief of any armed service goes over the head of the secretary of defense, there is a risk of provoking resentment.

When a president himself sends for members of the joint chiefs of staff and asks them privately for advice, they feel free to speak out without fear of incurring the disfavor of a cabinet secretary. This is the only practical way there can be a really intimate presentation of the military point of view to the Commander-In-Chief.

Theoretically, the secretary of defense should be promoting the military viewpoint in the civilian councils of the government. If there are considerations of international policy to be taken into account, the secretary of state could explain them. Secretary of Defense Mcnamara has made many of the principal recommendations on Vietnam war policy as well as on other military questions affecting national security in all parts of the world. Thus, policy has been formulated by the secretary of defense on the TFX bomber-fighter plane, nuclear-powered carriers, the anti-ballistic missile system, and other military problems on which differences of opinion have arisen.

IN ANY bombing campaigns during previous wars, the toughest targets have been hit at the outset for shock value and for political and economic as well as military effect. Mr. McNamara, it is said, persuaded the President to do it the other way in Vietnam — to start with the smallest targets first so as not to punish the enemy unduly. The result has been an increasingly high cost in human lives. The United States also has lost 664 planes in Vietnam, and it wasn't until after 500 had been destroyed that the Air Force was authorized to attack the missile bases which the Soviets had installed in North Vietnam.

So the story of the Vietnam war is a record of pleas by the service chiefs for permission to do intensive bombing, which was first refused and then later granted — but only after experience had demonstrated that the military men were right at the outset.

The targets still not being bombed, moreover, are important ones, including the Port of Haiphong. The military chiefs have been urging this, but evidently they are not being invited to sit alone with the President and give him their advice based on long years of study and training in military strategy and tactics.

Long Dry Spell Teaches Lesson

The long drought in the northeast section of the United States is over. The U.S. Geological Survey has made it official.

For a time -- about five years, in fact -- it looked as if Mother Nature was preparing this most densely populated region of the country for a permanent climatic change.

Now, except for a few isolated and localized pockets, the hydrologists report that reservoirs, streams and ground-water levels, in the Northeast have returned to normal, pre-1961 conditions.

The drought was not without its "redeeming virtues," says survey engineer Henry C. Barksdale. It taught many hydrologic lessons, spurred co-operation among federal, state and local authorities, resulted in better inventories of surface and ground water supplies and triggered actions or plans aimed at improvement of the development and management of water resources.

Not least, it brought about an awareness that water-supply problems are not necessarily just "water problems." Rather, they are frequently "people problems," requiring the assistasce of physical and social scientists, engineers, administrators and every citizen.

But water crises such as the northeast went through are never really solved, Barksdale points out.

The factors that caused the drought could occur again, and despite a healthy supply of water in many areas, it is barely adequate insurance against repetition of conditions that prevailed over the past few years.

The 1961-66 northeast drought was a test for all who have water resource responsibilities.

Much was learned from the experience, but we would be seriously remiss, he warns, if we failed to recognize the need for continued vigilance, for further studies and planning to minimize the probability of future water shortages.

That goes for most other sections of this growing, ever-more-water-hungry nation.

Averting A Future Tragedy

The National Transportation Safety Board's investigation of the skydiving tragedy in which 16 parachutists lost their lives will determine the future of the young sport.

The great loss of life will have a negative effect on the sport even though it has compiled a safety record better than some older ones that are played on the ground. Board action will answer the question: "Where do we go from here?"

It has shocked a public numb to far higher traffic fatality statistics, all the more so because it was an avoidable accident, a catastrophe compounded of human error and outright violation of federal aviation regulations.

The error was a faulty radar reading that placed the plane 10 miles off target and caused the parachutists to jump into Lake Erie. The violation was jumping through cloud cover.

A Federal Aviation Agency rule prohibits jumps in cloud conditions and stipulates that a pilot is not to permit anyone to make such a jump.

The board and FAA officials will sift testimony to come up with a ruling in the case.

They must determine if new regulations are needed — and if so — write them. If present regulations cover the situation, then they should be strictly enforced from now on.. Firm and immediate action would prevent future similar or worse tragedies while giving followers of the sport renewed confidence.

Russia Eyes Peking Grab

By Leon Denner

While the United States is watching Red China's political convulsions as a concerned observer, Russia is preparing to seize power in Peking.

Thousands of Soviet agents, many of them Red army officers on active duty, are reliably reported to be leading the anti-Mao insurgents in the rebellious provinces. More significant is increasing evidence that Moscow is already preparing the "legal ground" and "moral justification" for an invasion of China.

Premier Kosygin's ultimatum to Peking about the recent seizure of a Soviet freighter in the Chinese port of Dairen was only one indication of the Kremlin's plans.

Russian ships have been seized and their crews "insulted" in Dairen before. But the Russians veiled the incidents in diplomatic silence.

Why, then, Kosygin's sudden threat and ultimatum to Mao Tse-tung?

In the view of specialists on Communism, Moscow is beginning to pile up publicly enough grievances that would justify direct Soviet intervention in the Chinese civil war. This is an old Soviet policy that had been used effectively by Stalin in Poland, Romania and the Baltic countries.

Immediately after the Dairen incident Radio Moscow claimed that Mao's "accomplices" were openly attempting to change China's borders with Soviet Russia.

The radio charged that a textbook had been printed in Peking which included a map "showing certain Soviet territories" as belonging to China. It warned that any attempt by Mao to revise China's borders with Russia "carried the danger of serious military clashes."

The textbook and map have been in use in China for several years. But it is only in recent weeks that the Russians acknowledged their existence.

On Aug. 17, the Soviet government also charged in a protest note to Peking that the Chinese were engaged in a "hysterical anti-Soviet campaign" aimed at severing the few surviving threads of Soviet-Chinese diplomatic relations.

This was another case of Communist diplomatic doubletalk. It was merely confirmation of the fact that Moscow, to speed up Mao's fall, was considering a break in diplomatic relations with China.

According to Russian communications media, fighting between Chinese loyal to Mao and his opponents "is nearing Peking." A secret Soviet radio that broadcasts in various Chinese dialects also reported the emergence of a new anti-Mao army called "Independent Division." It includes security troops and officers "who have now joined the resistance movement against Mao Tse-tung.'

Is this "Independent Division" actually a pro-Soviet army staffed with Russian officers that will spearhead the attack on Peking?

There is no longer any doubt that the Soviet Union has pinned its hopes on a post-Mao China. Because of their vital interest in the survival of a Communist regime in Peking the Kremlin leaders are taking no chances.

They are even grooming a dead man as a true Chinese "revolutionary hero" to replace Mao. He is Kao Kang, a former Chinese duputy premier, who was purged by Mao in 1954.

Even as late as 1960, Kao Kang was described by the Russian Encyclopaedia as "a conspirator whose aim was to split the Communist party of China and seize the leadership." This was Mao's official reason for purging Kao Kang.

Now Soviet propaganda depicts Kao as a revolutionary martyr "who was arrested by Mao Tse-tung on false charges and died in prison under most unclear circumstances."

It is in the nature of Marxist-Leninists to cover up acts of aggression with an ideological slogan or symbol. Kao Kang is becoming the Russians' symbol and rallying cry in their efforts to destroy Mao.

The first English colony in America was established on Roanoke Island in 1585 and Virginia Dare, born there in 1857, was the first child of English parentage born in America.

The first Nobel prize in physics was awarded the German physicist, Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen (1845-1923) in 1901 for his discovery of X-rays. His achievement revolutionized medical and surgical techniques and provided new insights into the structure of the atom.

The first pouch of "international airmail" was flown March 3, 1919, from Seattle, Wash., to Vancouver, in Canada — a distance of only about 125 miles, but still "international."

During the "depression years" of the thirties, unemployment in the United States reached its peak in 1933 when 24.9 of the total labor force was out of work.

VICTOR RIESEL

Labor Revives Knighthood

LONDON: — The Queen's Prince Philip is a jolly good fellow and, as a trade unionist himself, gets on quite well with the labor movement. He pays his dues on time, stays in good standing technically and socially, even if not philosophically, inside labor.

Victor Riesel

So, some time ago the Trade Union Congress (TUC), the AFL-CIO of Britain, invited him over to sit around with its 36-man General Council one evening. It is reported that on his way into the modernistic lobby he noted a free-form, cubist piece of decoration and asked if it were a memorial to the unknown bricklayer.

When he got to the council chamber, he looked around the room at the British labor chiefs, many of them Socialists, and some of the left of that, and quipped:

"Im delighted to see so many working nights."

Knighthood never was more in flower than it was then in British labor — and is, today. There were many "Sirs" around the labor council table.

But it is even more "royal" now. There is a 12-man finance and general purposes committee of the General Council — sort of the equivalent to the AFL-CIO executive committee. Actually it runs the 9.5 million-member British labor movement.

On it are four lords, one knight, two Right Honorables (privy councillors, five commanders of the Order of the British Empire (C.B.E.), one Order of the British Empire (O.B.E.) and just one lonely "mister."

AFTER ALL, this is their government, and if Prime Minister Harold Wilson wants to suggest to Queen Elizabeth to title the proletariat, who is to say him nay. So there is Lord (Harry) Douglass president emeritus of the steelworkers; Lord Harold Collison, leader of the farm workers; Lord William Carron, head of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, an amalgam of auto and machine workers, and Lord Jack Cooper, of Stockton Heath, of the General and Municipal Workers.

The counterpart of the Teamsters' Frank Fitzsimmons is the Right Honorable Frank Cousins, a militant left-of-center head of Britain's biggest union, the 1.5 million-member Transport and General Workers Union. This makes him a privy councillor. So is George Woodcock, C.B.E., the TUC general secretary, George Meany's counterpart. How would the Right Honorable George Meany sound?

The knight is the lovable Sir Tom O'Brien, head of the theater and movie craft unions, once member of Parliament from Robin Hood's Nottingham Forest district.

Here they do not jest of these matters. They are proud of their titles. They are intensely loyal to their government. Agree with these Socialists or not, they love their country and rally to it, as they are doing now, when it is in trouble.

Theirs is a powerful movement, all the way from the giant Transport Workers, second largest in the free world, to the tiny 24-member London Jewish Bakers, who write their minutes in Hebrew.

These men know their nation is cliff-hanging over financial ruin. They know they now must export or die. They know that no one gets a slice if there is no pie.

So they talk of getting better working and living conditions instead of emphasizing higher and higher pay. At the moment they know that the pound will mean nothing if inflation wipes out its value.

They are teaching their followers that a day's work for a day's pay is what will save British industry and the nation's economy. Many of them were irritated when Prince Philip, this winter, protested that wherever he went, and wherever he tried to 'sell" his nation's products institutionally, he heard complaints of late deliveries and, sometimes, of inferior production. He said he was tired of it. In turn the Plasterer's Association accused him of coming from a class "which has always led a parasitic existence."

BUT MOST LABOR here knows that Prince Philip's reference to the indifference of many British production workers is correct. And such unions as the Electrical Trades Union — counterpart of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers — runs a college in Surrey on an estate which once belonged to a favorite lady of King Edward VII. To this labor university — where Pavlova once gave private performances — the union brings shop stewards and management people from such firms as Ford for long dialogues on how to improve the product, the Production techniques and the profit, as well as working conditions.

The movement grumbles, but for the most part backs the freeze on wages and prices.

No one wants to see a man lose his job, but it is better than losing one's nation. So official Labor Party policy will create a pool of 750,000 jobless by next winter.

This will cut down demand, installment buying and, therefore, prices and imports, and the hope is that the unemployed will go mobile and shift to areas where they are needed.

So British labor may be led by Socialist lords — perhaps they really are not as socialist as they try to sound — but to them it is Britain first. They love their gallant jousting. For example, when they celebrate their centenary next June, they will use the Guild Hall right in the center of "The City," the financial heart of the United Kingdom.

And Queen Elizabeth will be there.

She now is only a symbol, but her presence will be British Labor's way of showing loyalty to their country — a sentiment mighty scarce elsewhere in this unhappy vale of ours.

Hands Tied

Civilian makers of military policy have deprived American forces of victory in Vietnam just as they did during the Korean war 16 years ago when the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously recommended the bombing of Red China's supply lines north of the Yalu river, only to be overruled.

This analysis is emerging from the hearings by the subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee of the Senate. While limited objectives have been chosen in the Vietnam war operations, limited methods of achieving those objectives have been imposed. The military commanders again have had their hands tied. Cumulative losses, it is estimated, have turned out to be larger than might have been the case if intensified attacks on all targets in North Vietnam had been allowed a year or more ago.

Basically the trouble is the inadequacy of the liaison between all of the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the President of the United States, who, under the Constitution, is given responsibility as Commander-In-Chief of the armed forces. There's no provision in the Constitution which permits the President to delegate to any cabinet secretary or to any other civilian official the power to make military decisions.

FOR MANY years past, during a war, presidents have had their military chieftains close at hand and have consulted with them almost every day. This is not true now. The present members of the joint chiefs, either as a group or individually, have rarely seen President Johnson alone in private conference.

The argument is made in rebuttal that any of the service chiefs of staff may see the President whenever they wish. But this means they must take the initiative. They usually feel compelled, moreover, to notify the secretary of defense. While, strictly speaking, they can seek conferences with the President, they are not likely to do so. Experience shows that, when the chief of any armed service goes over the head of the secretary of defense, there is a risk of provoking resentment.

When a president himself sends for members of the joint chiefs of staff and asks them privately for advice, they feel free to speak out without fear of incurring the disfavor of a cabinet secretary. This is the only practical way there can be a really intimate presentation of the military point of view to the Commander-In-Chief.

Theoretically, the secretary of defense should be promoting the military viewpoint in the civilian councils of the government. If there are considerations of international policy to be taken into account, the secretary of state could explain them. Secretary of Defense Mcnamara has made many of the principal recommendations on Vietnam war policy as well as on other military questions affecting national security in all parts of the world. Thus, policy has been formulated by the secretary of defense on the TFX bomber-fighter plane, nuclear-powered carriers, the anti-ballistic missile system, and other military problems on which differences of opinion have arisen.

IN ANY bombing campaigns during previous wars, the toughest targets have been hit at the outset for shock value and for political and economic as well as military effect. Mr. McNamara, it is said, persuaded the President to do it the other way in Vietnam — to start with the smallest targets first so as not to punish the enemy unduly. The result has been an increasingly high cost in human lives. The United States also has lost 664 planes in Vietnam, and it wasn't until after 500 had been destroyed that the Air Force was authorized to attack the missile bases which the Soviets had installed in North Vietnam.

So the story of the Vietnam war is a record of pleas by the service chiefs for permission to do intensive bombing, which was first refused and then later granted — but only after experience had demonstrated that the military men were right at the outset.

The targets still not being bombed, moreover, are important ones, including the Port of Haiphong. The military chiefs have been urging this, but evidently they are not being invited to sit alone with the President and give him their advice based on long years of study and training in military strategy and tactics.

Purely Personal Observations

When I look at the grassed-over area where I used to raise garden truck, I remember the year I planted 50 tomatoes and bushels went to waste while other bushels went into cans that filled our basement for years, until they were too old to be used.

Something has slipped in a society whose high-priced artisans go on strike to get upward of three times as much additional an hour as many potential customers earn altogether in an hour.

Thistles are going to seed in Rosy Fingered Dawn, and it is fascinating to see hundreds and thousands of downy puffs borne on the wind, some to go hundreds of miles before finding a resting place.

I get a special buzz out of people who accuse other people of being un-American for doing the same things, like union members who say it is un-American for football players to use collective bargaining.

I have been telling people about a younger member of our family now in his second year of medical residency who says he and his associates are making less than [illegible] cents an hour for being doctors during the years between getting their MD degrees and hanging out shingles.

International affairs would be a lot more sensible if no one would listen to the preposterous lies of people who got knocked off while boasting of their preparations to knock off the Israelis. They cannot save face now by accusing their intended victims of not fighting fair.

I wish one of the big-shot economists advocating tax boosts would explain to me how the wage and price increases that would follow could do anything but make inflation worse instead of better.

If someone would invent a better lunch than the ones I have tried during my years of eating out at noontime, I would beat the world to their door.

Traffic Takes Toll In W. Va.

Three members of a North Carolina family were killed Friday night when their car collided with another vehicle on the West Virginia Turnpike about 25 miles north of Princeton.

The deaths were the first recorded on state highways since the start of the Labor Day holiday weekend at 6 p.m. Friday.

Killed in the turnpike crash while en route to visit relatives at Fayetteville were Larry Shearer, 26, of Winston-Salem, N. C., his wife, Betty, 25, and their 2 - year - old daughter, Michelle.

Attendants at the Appalachian Regional Hospital at Beckley said two persons were seriously injured in the accident —Timothy Shearer, 4, and the driver of the other car, 23-year-old Larry Lilly of Pipestem, Summers County.

Other mishaps on state highways took the lives of two other persons Friday before the start of the holiday count down of traffic deaths.

The victims were identified as Donald Rudder, 45, of Sistersville, killed on W. Va. 2 when his dump truck ran off the highway near Paden City, and Elza Menear, 70, of Morgantown.

SUMMER AND YOUR SEPTIC TANK

Surprising though it may seem, summer with its sunshine and showers, is just about the most crucial time of the year for owners of septic tanks.

To correctly understand the aforementioned statement it is first necessary to analyze the workings of septic tanks, and the effect of seasonal changes.

Your septic tank is a chamber wherein exists a complex of micro - organisms, each type equipped to handle and dispose of different types of waste material. Working as a team, these infinitesimal forms of life break down and liquefy the solids, leaving only a liquid which is free to run out for final disposal in your drainfield or drywell. Regularly activated, these living "garbage disposals" will normally keep up with the flow of waste, and your system will function properly. However, surveys show that during the summer season, more systems "back-up" and overflow than at any other time of year, creating expensive and highly unsanitary conditions.

WHY ? ? ?

The answer to that question is simply "temperature". Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy so that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in the millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "Skeleton crew" of weakened bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil, almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and showers add to the problem by increasing the amount of water entering the system.

How Sea-Cal Enzymes Help

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease packs in the septic tanks and drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria. SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anerobic bacteria per gram (28 grams in each ounce) and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism population is rapidly built up to the adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

3 Injured As Car Wrecks On Hancock County Road

Three were injured early today in Hancock County when the car in which they were riding wrecked as the driver attempted to avert a head-on collision.

Stephen G. Duke, 19, of Chester RD 1 told Hancock sheriff's deputies he overturned his car on Routes 30 and 2 about 2:20 a.m., when he drove off the roadway near Taylor's Bend to avoid an oncoming vehicle which was passing another car.

Duke is in "fairly good" condition today in City Hospital. Two passengers also were injured. In "good" condition were Frank M. Amedeo, 16, of 93 Railroad St., Chester, and David Moore, 18, of 103 Railroad St., Chester.

Duke's 1966 car was a total loss.

Another accident, Friday night, resulted in $600 damage to two autos when they collided on Route 2 near Route 30 at the "Y" intersection.

Cars driven by Edmund Ward, 65, of Galion, Ohio, and Daniel Vrable, 17, of 427 Grant St., Newell, received about $300 damage each.

Deputies said Ward halted for a stop sign, but pulled partially into the intersection. Vrable said he was attempting to turn in the direction of Ward's vehicle and high beams from Ward's car blinded him, causing Vrable to strike the other auto.

No one was injured in the 8:40 p. m. accident. There were no citations.

Local Man Cited In 3-Car Pileup

An East Liverpool man was cited for improper starting Friday following a three-car pileup on the Y. & O. Rd.

According to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon, cars driven by Matt Marcum, 50, of East Liverpool RD 1; Mark G. Roberts, 30, of Wellsville RD 1, and James R. Cunningham of Cornell Ave. were all southbound at a stop sign on Route 424.

They pulled out and the Marcum and Roberts auto stopped suddenly. Cunningham's auto struck the Roberts car, which in turn ran into the Marcum vehicle.

No one was injured. Cunningham was charged by officers.

SUMMER AND YOUR SEPTIC TANK

Surprising though it may seem, summer with its sunshine and showers, is just about the most crucial time of the year for owners of septic tanks.

To correctly understand the aforementioned statement it is first necessary to analyze the workings of septic tanks, and the effect of seasonal changes.

Your septic tank is a chamber wherein exists a complex of micro - organisms, each type equipped to handle and dispose of different types of waste material. Working as a team, these infinitesimal forms of life break down and liquefy the solids, leaving only a liquid which is free to run out for final disposal in your drainfield or drywell. Regularly activated, these living "garbage disposals" will normally keep up with the flow of waste, and your system will function properly. However, surveys show that during the summer season, more systems "back-up" and overflow than at any other time of year, creating expensive and highly unsanitary conditions.

WHY ? ? ?

The answer to that question is simply "temperature". Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy so that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in the millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "Skeleton crew" of weakened bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil, almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and showers add to the problem by increasing the amount of water entering the system.

How Sea-Cal Enzymes Help

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease packs in the septic tanks and drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria. SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anerobic bacteria per gram (28 grams in each ounce) and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism popuplation is rapidly built up to the adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

IMPORTANT ! ! ! ! !

FOR THE BEST PROTECTION DURING SUMMER DOUBLE YOUR SEA-CAL TREATMENTS. PARTICULARLY WHERE TANKS ARE UNDERSIZE OR ARE SUBJECT TO OVERLOADS AND/OR AMOUNTS OF DETERGENTS AND BLEACHES.

Three were injured early today in Hancock County when the car in which they were riding wrecked as the driver attempted to avert a head-on collision.

Stephen G. Duke, 19, of Chester RD 1 told Hancock sheriff's deputies he overturned his car on Routes 30 and 2 about 2:20 a.m., when he drove off the roadway near Taylor's Bend to avoid an oncoming vehicle which was passing another car.

Duke is in "fairly good" condition today in City Hospital. Two passengers also were injured. In "good" condition were Frank M. Amedeo, 16, of 93 Railroad St., Chester, and David Moore, 18, of 103 Railroad St., Chester.

Cars driven by Edmund Ward, 65, of Galion, Ohio, and Daniel Vrable, 17, of 427 Grant St., Newell, received about $300 damage each.

Deputies said Ward halted for a stop sign, but pulled partially into the intersection. Vrable said he was attempting to turn in the direction of Ward's vehicle and high beams from Ward's car blinded him, causing Vrable to strike the other auto.

SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 3rd, IS "A" DAY

What is so special about Sunday, September 3rd? Simply this. More than one-half million adult members of the Methodist Church begin a new adventure in Christian Education on September 3rd, "A" (for Adult) Day.

The appearance of the new curriculum series, Foundation Studies in Christian Faith, is the culmination of a major effort to provide an educational ministry by the Methodist Church that meets the demands of our changing world.

We believe that our new adult program which emphasizes individual participation presents Christian Education in a way that is clearly relevant to the everyday lives of people.

If you're the kind of a person who can take or leave Sunday School but find yourself leaving it, may we suggest that it is a good time for you and your family to again make Christian Education a part of your lives.

Regular class sessions for all age groups Sunday, 9:30 A.M. New curriculum material will also be offered at other hours and on other days if there is sufficient interest.

"A PLEA REGARDING CHRIST"

The Lord established His church on the day of Pentecost in about 33 A.D. From that time to now, the church of Christ has been continuing to make a plea with religious people. That plea is a distinctive plea. In our article last week we tried to show that a part of the plea was an acceptance of the Bible as the inspired will of God. Today, we would like to notice another part of that plea.

Our plea is for all men everywhere to accept Jesus Christ as the Savior of the world. It was predicted by an angel that Mary would have a son. " . . . and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins." Mt. 1:21. John the Baptist introduced Jesus as the "Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." Jno. 1:28. Jesus described his own work in this way: "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." Lk. 19: 10.

In view of the obvious teaching of the Bible in regard to Jesus' mission on the earth, it has been our plea for all men to accept Him as the Savior of the world.

Some may be thinking now that there is not so great a need for this plea. It would seem that most of the people that we know accept Jesus as the Savior. However, it is one thing to accept Jesus as the Savior and it is yet another to just pay lip-service to this belief. It seems that many are content to say that they believe this fact and yet go on without really doing anything about this belief.

Some have proved that they are merely paying lip-service to this belief because of the many schemes that they have devised in order to obtain salvation. Instead of just coming to Christ and doing what He commanded to be done, a great many who claim that they want salvation, have followed the ways of men in their efforts to be saved. Jesus gave these instructions, in Mk. 16:16. "He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved: but he that believeth not shall be damned." Instead of people just following this, they have decided that they can refuse to do what the Savior said and be saved by faith alone without being baptized. Some try to obtain salvation by getting down and praying for salvation. Jesus Christ, who is the Savior of men did not authorize such ideas. When men try to be saved by faith alone, they are rejecting the Savior of the world! When men try to be saved at some so-called "mourners bench" by praying to God, they have rejected the Savior of the world!

Dear friends, our plea is that Jesus be respected. We would urge that all would be busy obeying Jesus instead of trying to find ways to keep from doing what he commanded. He is our Savior.

Long Dry Spell Teaches Lesson

The long drought in the northeast section of the United States is over. The U.S. Geological Survey has made it official.

For a time — about five years, in fact — it looked as if Mother Nature was preparing this most densely populated region of the country for a permanent climatic change.

Now, except for a few isolated and localized pockets, the hydrologists report that reservoirs, streams and ground-water levels, in the Northeast have returned to normal, pre-1961 conditions.

The drought was not without its "redeeming virtues," says survey engineer Henry C. Barksdale. It taught many hydrologic lessons, spurred co-operation among federal, state and local authorities, resulted in better inventories of surface and ground water supplies and triggered actions or plans aimed at improvement of the development and management of water resources.

Not least, it brought about an awareness that water-supply problems are not necessarily just "water problems." Rather, they are frequently "people problems," requiring the assistasce of physical and social scientists, engineers, administrators and every citizen.

But water crises such as the northeast went through are never really solved, Barksdale points out.

The factors that caused the drought could occur again, and despite a healthy supply of water in many areas, it is barely adequate insurance against repetition of conditions that prevailed over the past few years.

The 1961-66 northeast drought was a test for all who have water resource responsibilities.

Much was learned from the experience, but we would be seriously remiss, he warns, if we failed to recognize the need for continued vigilance, for further studies and planning to minimize the probability of future water shortages.

That goes for most other sections of this growing, ever-more-water-hungry nation.

Averting A Future Tragedy

The National Transportation Safety Board's investigation of the skydiving tragedy in which 16 parachutists lost their lives will determine the future of the young sport.

The great loss of life will have a negative effect on the sport even though it has compiled a safety record better than some older ones that are played on the ground. Board action will answer the question: "Where do we go from here?"

It has shocked a public numb to far higher traffic fatality statistics, all the more so because it was an avoidable accident, a catastrophe compounded of human error and outright violation of federal aviation regulations.

The error was a faulty radar reading that placed the plane 10 miles off target and caused the parachutists to jump into Lake Erie. The violation was jumping through cloud cover.

A Federal Aviation Agency rule prohibits jumps in cloud conditions and stipulates that a pilot is not to permit anyone to make such a jump.

The board and FAA officials will sift testimony to come up with a ruling in the case.

They must determine if new regulations are needed — and if so — write them. If present regulations cover the situation, then they should be strictly enforced from now on.. Firm and immediate action would prevent future similar or worse tragedies while giving followers of the sport renewed confidence.

Russia Eyes Peking Grab

By Leon Denner

While the United States is watching Red China's political convulsions as a concerned observer, Russia is preparing to seize power in Peking.

Thousands of Soviet agents, many of them Red army officers on active duty, are reliably reported to be leading the anti-Mao insurgents in the rebellious provinces. More significant is increasing evidence that Moscow is already preparing the "legal ground" and "moral justification" for an invasion of China.

Premier Kosygin's ultimatum to Peking about the recent seizure of a Soviet freighter in the Chinese port of Dairen was only one indication of the Kremlin's plans.

Russian ships have been seized and their crews "insulted" in Dairen before. But the Russians veiled the incidents in diplomatic silence.

Why, then, Kosygin's sudden threat and ultimatum to Mao Tse-tung?

In the view of specialists on Communism, Moscow is beginning to pile up publicly enough grievances that would justify direct Soviet intervention in the Chinese civil war. This is an old Soviet policy that had been used effectively by Stalin in Poland, Romania and the Baltic countries.

Immediately after the Dairen incident Radio Moscow claimed that Mao's "accomplices" were openly attempting to change China's borders with Soviet Russia.

The radio charged that a textbook had been printed in Peking which included a map "showing certain Soviet territories" as belonging to China. It warned that any attempt by Mao to revise China's borders with Russia "carried the danger of serious military clashes."

The textbook and map have been in use in China for several years. But it is only in recent weeks that the Russians acknowledged their existence.

On Aug. 17, the Soviet government also charged in a protest note to Peking that the Chinese were engaged in a "hysterical anti-Soviet campaign" aimed at severing the few surviving threads of Soviet-Chinese diplomatic relations.

This was another case of Communist diplomatic doubletalk. It was merely confirmation of the fact that Moscow, to speed up Mao's fall, was considering a break in diplomatic relations with China.

According to Russian communications media, fighting between Chinese loyal to Mao and his opponents "is nearing Peking." A secret Soviet radio that broadcasts in various Chinese dialects also reported the emergence of a new anti-Mao army called "Independent Division." It includes security troops and officers "who have now joined the resistance movement against Mao Tse-tung."

Is this "Independent Division" actually a pro-Soviet army staffed with Russian officers that will spearhead the attack on Peking?

There is no longer any doubt that the Soviet Union has pinned its hopes on a post-Mao China. Because of their vital interest in the survival of a Communist regime in Peking the Kremlin leaders are taking no chances.

They are even grooming a dead man as a true Chinese "revolutionary hero" to replace Mao. He is Kao Kang, a former Chinese duputy premier, who was purged by Mao in 1954.

Even as late as 1960, Kao Kang was described by the Russian Encyclopaedia as "a conspirator whose aim was to split the Communist party of China and seize the leadership." This was Mao's official reason for purging Kao Kang.

Now Soviet propaganda depicts Kao as a revolutionary martyr "who was arrested by Mao Tse-tung on false charges and died in prison under most unclear circumstances."

It is in the nature of Marxist-Leninists to cover up acts of aggression with an ideological slogan or symbol. Kao Kang is becoming the Russians' symbol and rallying cry in their efforts to destroy Mao.

VICTOR RIESEL

Labor Revives Knighthood

LONDON: — The Queen's Prince Philip is a jolly good fellow and, as a trade unionist himself, gets on quite well with the labor movement. He pays his dues on time, stays in good standing technically and socially, even if not philosophically, inside labor.

Victor Riesel

So, some time ago the Trade Union Congress (TUC), the AFL-CIO of Britain, invited him over to sit around with its 36-man General Council one evening. It is reported that on his way into the modernistic lobby he noted a free-form, cubist piece of decoration and asked if it were a memorial to the unknown bricklayer.

When he got to the council chamber, he looked around the room at the British labor chiefs, many of them Socialists, and some of the left of that, and quipped:

"Im delighted to see so many working nights."

Knighthood never was more in flower than it was then in British labor — and is, today. There were many "Sirs" around the labor council table.

But it is even more "royal" now. There is a 12-man finance and general purposes committee of the General Council — sort of the equivalent to the AFL-CIO executive committee. Actually it runs the 9.5 million-member British labor movement.

On it are four lords, one knight, two Right Honorables (privy councillors, five commanders of the Order of the British Empire (C.B.E.), one Order of the British Empire (O.B.E.) and just one lonely "mister."

AFTER ALL, this is their government, and if Prime Minister Harold Wilson wants to suggest to Queen Elizabeth to title the proletariat, who is to say him nay. So there is Lord (Harry) Douglass president emeritus of the steelworkers; Lord Harold Collison, leader of the farm workers; Lord William Carron, head of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, an amalgam of auto and machine workers, and Lord Jack Cooper, of Stockton Heath, of the General and Municipal Workers.

The counterpart of the Teamsters' Frank Fitzsimmons is the Right Honorable Frank Cousins, a militant left-of-center head of Britain's biggest union, the 1.5 million-member Transport and General Workers Union. This makes him a privy councillor. So is George Woodcock, C.B.E., the TUC general secretary, George Meany's counterpart. How would the Right Honorable George Meany sound?

The knight is the lovable Sir Tom O'Brien, head of the theater and movie craft unions, once member of Parliament from Robin Hood's Nottingham Forest district.

Here they do not jest of these matters. They are proud of their titles. They are intensely loyal to their government. Agree with these Socialists or not, they love their country and rally to it, as they are doing now, when it is in trouble.

Theirs is a powerful movement, all the way from the giant Transport Workers, second largest in the free world, to the tiny 24-member London Jewish Bakers, who write their minutes in Hebrew.

These men know their nation is cliff-hanging over financial ruin. They know they now must export or die. They know that no one gets a slice if there is no pie.

So they talk of getting better working and living conditions instead of emphasizing higher and higher pay. At the moment they know that the pound will mean nothing if inflation wipes out its value.

They are teaching their followers that a day's work for a day's pay is what will save British industry and the nation's economy. Many of them were irritated when Prince Philip, this winter, protested that wherever he went, and wherever he tried to 'sell" his nation's products institutionally, he heard complaints of late deliveries and, sometimes, of inferior production. He said he was tired of it. In turn the Plasterer's Association accused him of coming from a class "which has always led a parasitic existence."

BUT MOST LABOR here knows that Prince Philip's reference to the indifference of many British production workers is correct. And such unions as the Electrical Trades Union — counterpart of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers — runs a college in Surrey on an estate which once belonged to a favorite lady of King Edward VII. To this labor university — where Pavlova once gave private performances — the union brings shop stewards and management people from such firms as Ford for long dialogues on how to improve the product, the Production techniques and the profit, as well as working conditions.

The movement grumbles, but for the most part backs the freeze on wages and prices.

No one wants to see a man lose his job, but it is better than losing one's nation. So official Labor Party policy will create a pool of 750,000 jobless by next winter.

This will cut down demand, installment buying and, therefore, prices and imports, and the hope is that the unemployed will go mobile and shift to areas where they are needed

So British labor may be led by Socialist lords — perhaps they really are not as socialist as they try to sound — but to them it is Britain first. They love their gallant jousting. For example, when they celebrate their centenary next June, they will use the Guild Hall right in the center of "The City," the financial heart of the United Kingdom.

And Queen Elizabeth will be there.

She now is only a symbol, but her presence will be British Labor's way of showing loyalty to their country — a sentiment mighty scarce elsewhere in this unhappy vale of ours.

Purely Personal Observations

When I look at the grassed-over area where I used to raise garden truck, I remember the year I planted 50 tomatoes and bushels went to waste while other bushels went into cans that filled our basement for years, until they were too old to be used.

Something has slipped in a society whose high-priced artisans go on strike to get upward of three times as much additional an hour as many potential customers earn altogether in an hour.

Thistles are going to seed in Rosy Fingered Dawn, and it is fascinating to see hundreds and thousands of downy puffs borne on the wind, some to go hundreds of miles before finding a resting place.

I get a special buzz out of people who accuse other people of being un-American for doing the same things, like union members who say it is un-American for football players to use collective bargaining.

I have been telling people about a younger member of our family now in his second year of medical residency who says he and his associates are making less than [illegible] cents an hour for being doctors during the years between getting their MD degrees and hanging out shingles.

International affairs would be a lot more sensible if no one would listen to the preposterous lies of people who got knocked off while boasting of their preparations to knock off the Israelis. They cannot save face now by accusing their intended victims of not fighting fair.

I wish one of the big-shot economists advocating tax boosts would explain to me how the wage and price increases that would follow could do anything but make inflation worse instead of better.

If someone would invent a better lunch than the ones I have tried during my years of eating out at noontime, I would beat the world to their door.

Hands Tied

Civilian makers of military policy have deprived American forces of victory in Vietnam just as they did during the Korean war 16 years ago when the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously recommended the bombing of Red China's supply lines north of the Yalu river, only to be overruled.

This analysis is emerging from the hearings by the subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee of the Senate. While limited objectives have been chosen in the Vietnam war operations, limited methods of achieving those objectives have been imposed. The military commanders again have had their hands tied. Cumulative losses, it is estimated, have turned out to be larger than might have been the case if intensified attacks on all targets in North Vietnam had been allowed a year or more ago.

Basically the trouble is the inadequacy of the liaison between all of the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the President of the United States, who, under the Constitution, is given responsibility as Commander-In-Chief of the armed forces. There's no provision in the Constitution which permits the President to delegate to any cabinet secretary or to any other civilian official the power to make military decisions.

FOR MANY years past, during a war, presidents have had their military chieftains close at hand and have consulted with them almost every day. This is not true now. The present members of the joint chiefs, either as a group or individually, have rarely seen President Johnson alone in private conference.

The argument is made in rebuttal that any of the service chiefs of staff may see the President whenever they wish. But this means they must take the initiative. They usually feel compelled, moreover, to notify the secretary of defense. While, strictly speaking, they can seek conferences with the President, they are not likely to do so. Experience shows that, when the chief of any armed service goes over the head of the secretary of defense, there is a risk of provoking resentment.

When a president himself sends for members of the joint chiefs of staff and asks them privately for advice, they feel free to speak out without fear of incurring the disfavor of a cabinet secretary. This is the only practical way there can be a really intimate presentation of the military point of view to the Commander-In-Chief.

Theoretically, the secretary of defense should be promoting the military viewpoint in the civilian councils of the government. If there are considerations of international policy to be taken into account, the secretary of state could explain them. Secretary of Defense Mcnamara has made many of the principal recommendations on Vietnam war policy as well as on other military questions affecting national security in all parts of the world. Thus, policy has been formulated by the secretary of defense on the TFX bomber-fighter plane, nuclear-powered carriers, the anti-ballistic missile system, and other military problems on which differences of opinion have arisen.

IN ANY bombing campaigns during previous wars, the toughest targets have been hit at the outset for shock value and for political and economic as well as military effect. Mr. McNamara, it is said, persuaded the President to do it the other way in Vietnam — to start with the smallest targets first so as not to punish the enemy unduly. The result has been an increasingly high cost in human lives. The United States also has lost 664 planes in Vietnam, and it wasn't until after 500 had been destroyed that the Air Force was authorized to attack the missile bases which the Soviets had installed in North Vietnam.

So the story of the Vietnam war is a record of pleas by the service chiefs for permission to do intensive bombing, which was first refused and then later granted — but only after experience had demonstrated that the military men were right at the outset.

The targets still not being bombed, moreover, are important ones, including the Port of Haiphong. The military chiefs have been urging this, but evidently they are not being invited to sit alone with the President and give him their advice based on long years of study and training in military strategy and tactics.

L.A. Dry Spell Ends In Sudden Downpour

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A sudden downpour, with thunder and lightning, snapped Los Angeles' long dry spell Friday night.

For 17 minutes, power was off to portions of downtown Los Angeles and Hollywood. The half-hour storm caused street flooding.

The storm also hit the cities of Duarte, La Puente and Azusa and in nearby mountains.

Los Angeles, which had gone without sizeable rain since May 9, got .41 inch of rain.

The rain is expected to help clear away a record siege of smog.

Flies And Not Smoke Got In Their Eyes

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Firemen found sand flies in the belfry when they investigated a report of fire at St. Louis Roman Catholic church in downtown Buffalo Friday night.

A swarm of the insects around the church's steeple gave the illusion of smoke to a passerby, who turned in the alarm.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE STEEPLEJACK

Look closely . . . in this picture a man is risking his life!

An old and respected trade is his. It had its beginning centuries ago when Christianity first began to express its devotion in unique forms of architecture. How could Christians proclaim constantly their faith in Christ? How could they lift the eyes of others to behold the Lord of Life?

Soon, over gabled village roofs rose gleaming spires. And men who tilled the fields, and men who trod the lanes, rejoiced to behold the symbol of Faith.

Then one day cities replaced villages . . . skyscrapers dwarfed the spires of God. And so, on the day this picture was taken, ten thousand people passed by and never raised their eyes. Only a few looked upward and thought in mild surprise, "Why, isn't that a man way up there on the steeple?"

Yes. A MAN. One of hundreds of millions whose skill and courage continue to be needed as the Church fulfills its mission.

Maybe your church doesn't have a steeple. But it has a task to challenge your skills . . . your courage.

Traffic Takes Toll In W. Va.

Three members of a North Carolina family were killed Friday night when their car collided with another vehicle on the West Virginia Turnpike about 25 miles north of Princeton.

The deaths were the first recorded on state highways since the start of the Labor Day holiday weekend at 6 p.m. Friday.

Killed in the turnpike crash while en route to visit relatives at Fayetteville were Larry Shearer, 26, of Winston-Salem, N. C., his wife, Betty, 25, and their 2 - year - old daughter, Michelle.

Attendants at the Appalachian Regional Hospital at Beckley said two persons were seriously injured in the accident —Timothy Shearer, 4, and the driver of the other car, 23-year-old Larry Lilly of Pipestem, Summers County.

Other mishaps on state highways took the lives of two other persons Friday before the start of the holiday count down of traffic deaths.

The victims were identified as Donald Rudder, 45, of Sistersville, killed on W. Va. 2 when his dump truck ran off the highway near Paden City, and Elza Menear, 70, of Morgantown.

SUMMER AND YOUR SEPTIC TANK

Surprising though it may seem, summer with its sunshine and showers, is just about the most crucial time of the year for owners of septic tanks.

To correctly understand the aforementioned statement it is first necessary to analyze the workings of septic tanks, and the effect of seasonal changes.

Your septic tank is a chamber wherein exists a complex of micro - organisms, each type equipped to handle and dispose of different types of waste material. Working as a team, these infinitesimal forms of life break down and liquefy the solids, leaving only a liquid which is free to run out for final disposal in your drainfield or drywell. Regularly activated, these living "garbage disposals" will normally keep up with the flow of waste, and your system will function properly. However, surveys show that during the summer season, more systems "back-up" and overflow than at any other time of year, creating expensive and highly unsanitary conditions.

WHY ? ? ?

The answer to that question is simply "temperature". Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy so that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in the millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "Skeleton crew" of weakened bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil, almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and showers add to the problem by increasing the amount of water entering the system.

How Sea-Cal Enzymes Help

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease packs in the septic tanks and drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria. SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anerobic bacteria per gram (28 grams in each ounce) and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism popuplation is rapidly built up to the adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

IMPORTANT ! ! ! ! !

FOR THE BEST PROTECTION DURING SUMMER DOUBLE YOUR SEA-CAL TREATMENTS. PARTICULARLY WHERE TANKS ARE UNDERSIZE OR ARE SUBJECT TO OVERLOADS AND/OR AMOUNTS OF DETERGENTS AND BLEACHES.

3 Injured As Car Wrecks On Hancock County Road

Three were injured early today in Hancock County when the car in which they were riding wrecked as the driver attempted to avert a head-on collision.

Stephen G. Duke, 19, of Chester RD 1 told Hancock sheriff's deputies he overturned his car on Routes 30 and 2 about 2:20 a.m., when he drove off the roadway near Taylor's Bend to avoid an oncoming vehicle which was passing another car.

Duke is in "fairly good" condition today in City Hospital. Two passengers also were injured. In "good" condition were Frank M. Amedeo, 16, of 93 Railroad St., Chester, and David Moore, 18, of 103 Railroad St., Chester.

Duke's 1966 car was a total loss.

Another accident, Friday night, resulted in $600 damage to two autos when they collided on Route 2 near Route 30 at the "Y" intersection.

Cars driven by Edmund Ward, 65, of Galion, Ohio, and Daniel Vrable, 17, of 427 Grant St., Newell, received about $300 damage each.

Deputies said Ward halted for a stop sign, but pulled partially into the intersection. Vrable said he was attempting to turn in the direction of Ward's vehicle and high beams from Ward's car blinded him, causing Vrable to strike the other auto.

No one was injured in the 8:40 p. m. accident. There were no citations.

Local Man Cited In 3-Car Pileup

An East Liverpool man was cited for improper starting Friday following a three-car pileup on the Y. & O. Rd.

According to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon, cars driven by Matt Marcum, 50, of East Liverpool RD 1; Mark G. Roberts, 30, of Wellsville RD 1, and James R. Cunningham of Cornell Ave. were all southbound at a stop sign on Route 424.

They pulled out and the Marcum and Roberts auto stopped suddenly. Cunningham's auto struck the Roberts car, which in turn ran into the Marcum vehicle.

No one was injured. Cunningham was charged by officers.

Later, Ralph Cehrs, 37, of Lisbon was charged with driving while intoxicated after his south bound truck left Ganders Flats Rd., near Route 30, and struck a tree. The incident occurred at 6:30 last night.

"Blue sky" laws are designed to prevent the sale of fraudulent securities.

Neck Injuries Result When Two Cars Hit

An East Liverpool area motorist suffered neck injuries after his vehicle was struck from behind Friday at 2:35 p. m. at 7th St. and Midland Ave. in Midland.

Herman C. Miller of Annesley Rd. was treated at City Hospital for a whiplash of the neck. His auto was struck from the rear by a vehicle driven by Wallace Wright of 317 Carolina Ave., East Liverpool.

No charges were filed, but $200 damage resulted to Miller's car. No damage was reported to Wright's 1965 vehicle.

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I impart a nice brown gloss to my pies?

A. — Beat an egg thoroughly with a small amount of water, then add a little milk and beat well. Dip your pastry brush into this mixture, and go over the pies when they are ready to place in the oven.

Q.—What can I do about mildew on upholstered fabrics or luggage?

A.—Try sponging lightly with a clean cloth that has been dampened with an equal - parts mixture of denatured alcohol and water. Allow to dry in fresh air if possible. This treatment will also get rid of the musty odor in most cases.

Q. — How can I remove stubborn paint stains from clothing?

A. — These will usually yield to a mixture of turpentine (or mineral spirits) and ammonia. Rub this well into the fabrics before cleaning.

Q. — How can I clean black felt?

A. — A teaspoonful of ammonia mixed with a half cup of cold tea is an excellent cleanser for black felt.

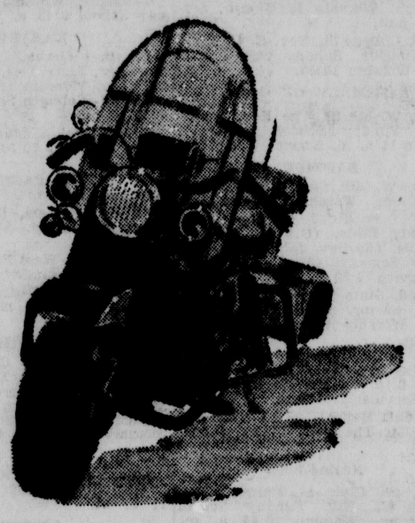
BACK-TO-SCHOOL



PLEASE DON'T HURT MY LITTLE GIRL

IN a few days, my 7-year old daughter will start back to school. She's so thrilled. Has been readying for the big event all week . . what she'll take, what she'll wear, and things like that. Her pet spaniel, "Scoot", can't understand . . . he just follows her around and whines now and then.

LAST night, we talked a bit about school. About new girls she'd likely meet . . . about big girls who don't believe in Santa Claus . . . about boys who make funny faces . . . and teachers with eyes in the back of their heads. We talked about many vital things, even brushed up on studies like Reading and Spelling. Then I tucked her in bed, with her doll "Princess" cuddled in her arm.

AS her mother, I'm worried. You see, I can fix things when she cuts her finger or bumps her head. But when she's off to school, crossing streets, she's in your hands. You won't hurt her . . . will you, Please?

SHE'S very sweet and precious . . . we love her so. Runs like a deer, active as a chipmunk. Likes to swim, go on hikes with her daddy. But, we can't be with her all the time . . . especially to and from school.

PLEASE won't you help us protect her? Won't you please Drive Carefully past schools and at intersections? And please remember that children do run out from behind parked cars.

Action Scheduled On City Projects

Legislation authorizing three city projects expected to cost a total of $15,000 is scheduled for presentation to Council at its first September meeting Tuesday night at 8.

The resolutions will authorize the administration to call for bids and award contracts for: Erection of a bulldozer garage at the new municipal landfill dump site along the Y. & O. Rd. and installation of a new boiler in the heating system and a new roof for Central Fire Station.

Legislation providing funds for the three jobs was approved at the Aug. 7 meeting. Council voted to borrow $6,000 for the landfill garage, $4,000 for the boiler work and $5,000 for the roof project. Next week's meeting will be a day behind the usual schedule because of the Labor Day observance Monday.

SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 3rd, IS "A" DAY

What is so special about Sunday, September 3rd? Simply this. More than one-half million adult members of the Methodist Church begin a new adventure in Christian Education on September 3rd, "A" (for Adult) Day.

The appearance of the new curriculum series, Foundation Studies in Christian Faith, is the culmination of a major effort to provide an educational ministry by the Methodist Church that meets the demands of our changing world.

We believe that our new adult program which emphasizes individual participation presents Christian Education in a way that is clearly relevant to the everyday lives of people.

If you're the kind of a person who can take or leave Sunday School but find yourself leaving it, may we suggest that it is a good time for you and your family to again make Christian Education a part of your lives.

Regular class sessions for all age groups Sunday, 9:30 A.M. New curriculum material will also be offered at other hours and on other days if there is sufficient interest.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

"A PLEA REGARDING CHRIST"

The Lord established His church on the day of Pentecost in about 33 A.D. From that time to now, the church of Christ has been continuing to make a plea with religious people. That plea is a distinctive plea. In our article last week we tried to show that a part of the plea was an acceptance of the Bible as the inspired will of God. Today, we would like to notice another part of that plea.

Our plea is for all men everywhere to accept Jesus Christ as the Savior of the world. It was predicted by an angel that Mary would have a son. " . . . and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins." Mt. 1:21. John the Baptist introduced Jesus as the "Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." Jno. 1:28. Jesus described his own work in this way: "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." Lk. 19:10.

In view of the obvious teaching of the Bible in regard to Jesus' mission on the earth, it has been our plea for all men to accept Him as the Savior of the world.

Some may be thinking now that there is not so great a need for this plea. It would seem that most of the people that we know accept Jesus as the Savior. However, it is one thing to accept Jesus as the Savior and it is yet another to just pay lip-service to this belief. It seems that many are content to say that they believe this fact and yet go on without really doing anything about this belief.

Some have proved that they are merely paying lip-service to this belief because of the many schemes that they have devised in order to obtain salvation. Instead of just coming to Christ and doing what He commanded to be done, a great many who claim that they want salvation, have followed the ways of men in their efforts to be saved. Jesus gave these instructions, in Mk. 16:16. "He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved: but he that believeth not shall be damned." Instead of people just following this, they have decided that they can refuse to do what the Savior said and be saved by faith alone without being baptized. Some try to obtain salvation by getting down and praying for salvation. Jesus Christ, who is the Savior of men did not authorize such ideas. When men try to be saved by faith alone, they are rejecting the Savior of the world! When men try to be saved at some so-called "mourners bench" by praying to God, they have rejected the Savior of the world!

Dear friends, our plea is that Jesus be respected. We would urge that all would be busy obeying Jesus instead of trying to find ways to keep from doing what he commanded. He is our Savior.

Girl Watchers Get Bare Facts On 2000 A.D.

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — How will men spend their time in 2000 A.D. when machines are doing all the work?

Science fiction writers may have come up with an answer: "They'll watch girls—because there'll be so much of the girls to watch."

This sociological discovery became apparent Friday night when about a thousand whistling, applauding, camera-snapping sci-fi buffs and their literary heroes—mostly men in both cases—attended a futuristic fashion show staged by Galaxy magazine for the World Science Fiction Convention. Their rousing approval was enough to make a Parisian couturier turn simply chartreuse with envy.

A huge success was predictable, however, for what red-blooded space fan could fail to be galvanized by fashions that make miniskirts look like Mother Hubbards?

About a score of nonprofessional models—some chubby teen-agers and all friends or relatives of science fiction people—paraded somewhat uncertainly up and down the runway of the convention hotel's ballroom wearing:

—What looked like a couple of barrel staves hanging horizontally—and strategically;

—A long, A-line cellophane gown over black tights and boots;

—A short dancing dress of tiered pouffs of lemon, apricot and coffee-colored chiffon that bared one bosom except for a pasty;

—A gold lame, tear-apart dress that, after floor-length skirt and wrist-length sleeves had been removed, extended not one millimeter lower than it had to;

—A paper minismock that, retreating, revealed a bare back and brief panties;

—An office minidress that looked demure enough until the tunic came off to present formidable decolletage;

—A bikini of synthetic white fur with flashing lights;

—A wedding dress with veil and bell bottom pants, and a heart-shaped patch on the bride's cheek; —Asymmetrical costumes sporting one long pants leg and one very brief panty leg, one high boot and one sandal, one bare arm and one frilly sleeve.

With so much bare anatomy for scrutiny in the years ahead, one scientific advance seems inevitable. Climate control will have to be perfected in the next few decades, or women. 2000 A.D. will have chronic cases of triple pneumonia.

Stolen Car Recovered By New Jersey Police

A 1967 convertible stolen from an East Liverpool man nearly a month ago was recovered early Friday afternoon by police in Florence, N. J., as they interrupted an armed robbery, local officers were advised.

The arrest of the two suspects led to recovery of the car which Sanders Firestone of Manor Ln. reported stolen Aug. 5 from a parking place on W. 6th St. The vehicle was removed temporarily to the police garage at Florence.

The Florence department advised its officers took the two men into custody as they were in the act of staging a robbery. It said one of the suspects resides at Pittsburgh and the other gave an address in Levittown, Pa. The recovery of Firestone's car was reported at 1:45 p. m.

President John Adams approved America's first "medicare" in 1798 "for the relief of sick and disabled seamen."

L.A. Dry Spell Ends In Sudden Downpour

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A sudden downpour, with thunder and lightning, snapped Los Angeles' long dry spell Friday night.

For 17 minutes, power was off to portions of downtown Los Angeles and Hollywood. The half-hour storm caused street flooding.

The storm also hit the cities of Duarte, La Puente and Azusa and in nearby mountains.

Los Angeles, which had gone without sizeable rain since May 9, got .41 inch of rain.

Flies And Not Smoke Got In Their Eyes

A swarm of the insects around the church's steeple gave the illusion of smoke to a passerby, who turned in the alarm.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Look closely . . . in this picture a man is risking his life!

An old and respected trade is his. It had its beginning centuries ago when Christianity first began to express its devotion in unique forms of architecture. How could Christians proclaim constantly their faith in Christ? How could they lift the eyes of others to behold the Lord of Life?

Soon, over gabled village roofs rose gleaming spires. And men who tilled the fields, and men who trod the lanes, rejoiced to behold the symbol of Faith.

Then one day cities replaced villages . . . skyscrapers dwarfed the spires of God. And so, on the day this picture was taken, ten thousand people passed by and never raised their eyes. Only a few looked upward and thought in mild surprise, "Why, isn't that a man way up there on the steeple?"

Yes. A MAN. One of hundreds of millions whose skill and courage continue to be needed as the Church fulfills its mission.

Maybe your church doesn't have a steeple. But it has a task to challenge your skills . . . your courage.

Several photographers displayed outstanding ability in the third annual Tri-State Camera Club contest staged last Sunday at Thompson Park and for getting the right picture they were named winners in the competition.

There were 145 pictures entered by 35 photographers and over 500 people attended the salon. The entries were up over the 111 of last year.

A show winner must meet the basic requirements of good photography, including proper focus, appropriate lighting, balance composition, eye appeal and a uniqueness which sets his work apart from an ordinary photo.

The purpose of the salon is to stimulate interest and develop skills in photography in the area. Men and women of all ages are in the Camera Club and their equipment varies from the simple box camera to the more complex equipment.

Judges Sunday were Jack Horsley of Horsley Studio, J. Nessley Porter, local architect, and Marvin Triguba of the Taylor, Smith and Taylor Co.

The Tri-State Camera Club meets the first Friday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. building in Glenmoor. Anyone interested in photography is welcome to attend, the officers pointed out.

The American Pavilion at Expo 67 was the subject for this picture, which was judged best of show. The human interest shot was taken by Bob Weaver of 310 Carolina Ave., East Liverpool.

F. M. Duncan of Leetonia snapped this winning human interest photo in Duc Pho, Vietnam.

Still life was taken by Bob Poole of Westfield Rd. who painted light using an open shutter in total darkness.

John Ciccarelli of 623 Carolina Ave., Chester found the American Metals Society building at Newbury, Ohio, an interesting study in architecture to capture first place in the architecture black and white division. He used an Ikoflex camera with zeiss twin lens.

The Ohio River offered this view in a first place scenic black and white by W. C. Smith of Campground Rd.

First place in human interest color was submitted by W. H. Lowe of Cannons Mills in a shot of branches and people taken in the Quetico Superior National Forest near the Canadian Border at Knife Lake, Minn.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I impart a nice brown gloss to my pies?

A. — Beat an egg thoroughly with a small amount of water, then add a little milk and beat well. Dip your pastry brush into this mixture, and go over the pies when they are ready to place in the oven.

Q.—What can I do about mildew on upholstered fabrics or luggage?

A.—Try sponging lightly with a clean cloth that has been dampened with an equal - parts mixture of denatured alcohol and water. Allow to dry in fresh air if possible. This treatment will also get rid of the musty odor in most cases.

Q. — How can I remove stubborn paint stains from clothing?

A. — These will usually yield to a mixture of turpentine (or mineral spirits) and ammonia. Rub this well into the fabrics before cleaning.

Q. — How can I clean black felt?

A. — A teaspoonful of ammonia mixed with a half cup of cold tea is an excellent cleanser for black felt.

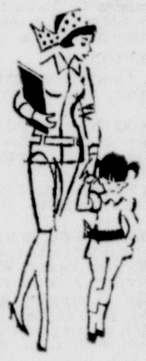
PLEASE DON'T HURT MY LITTLE GIRL



IN a few days, my 7-year old daughter will start back to school. She's so thrilled. Has been readying for the big event all week . . what she'll take, what she'll wear, and things like that. Her pet spaniel, "Scoot", can't understand . . . he just follows her around and whines now and then.

LAST night, we talked a bit about school. About new girls she'd likely meet . . . about big girls who don't believe in Santa Claus . . . about boys who make funny faces . . . and teachers with eyes in the back of their heads. We talked about many vital things, even brushed up on studies like Reading and Spelling. Then I tucked her in bed, with her doll "Princess" cuddled in her arm.

AS her mother, I'm worried. You see, I can fix things when she cuts her finger or bumps her head. But when she's off to school, crossing streets, she's in your hands. You won't hurt her . . . will you, Please?

SHE'S very sweet and precious . . . we love her so. Runs like a deer, active as a chipmunk. Likes to swim, go on hikes with her daddy. But, we can't be with her all the time . . . especially to and from school.

PLEASE won't you help us protect her? Won't you please Drive Carefully past schools and at intersections? And please remember that children do run out from behind parked cars.

Outdoor Notes

By HARRY STEWART
Review Staff Member

Dan C. Armbruster, chief, Ohio Division of Wildlife, has announced the following waterfowl seasons for 1967.

Hunting hours one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Season for ducks, coots, gallinule and mergansers October 17 through November 25, 1967.

Seasons for geese Oct. 17 through Dec. 18, 1967, and Dec. 26 through Jan. 1, 1968.

Bag limits, Ducks - daily limit 4, possession limit after first day 8. However, the daily bag limit may not include more than the following species - two mallard, one woodduck and one canvasback. Duck possession limit after the first day may not include more than the following species - four mallard, two woodduck and one canvasback.

The limits on American, red-breasted and hooded mergansers, in the aggregate of these species, are five daily and 10 in possession of which not more than one daily and two in possession, may be hooded mergansers.

Gallinules, daily bag limit, 15, possession limit after first day, 30.

Geese, bag and possession limit, 5, however, not more than 2 Canada geese, or sub-species; or, 2 white-fronted geese, or 1 Canada goose or sub-species, and 1 white-fronted goose, may be taken or possessed in one day.

Bonus Scaup Area; Beginning Nov. 1, 1967 and throughout the remainder of duck season a person may take 2 scaup and possess 4 scaup in addition to the 4 ducks per day limit and 8 possession limit in the following decribed area: all water area of Lake Erie, in Ohio, lying east of an imaginary line running due north from the confluence of the west bank of Rocky River and Lake Erie to the International Boundary.

NEW FISHING regulations have been announced by the Wildlife Council with a daily bag limit of 10 on walleye for sport fishermen throughout the state.

The statewide bag limit was necessary in order to preserve the spawning runs in the Sandusky River, Grand River, and the well established run in the Mahoning River below Berlin Dam. The 10 fish daily limit will also control the taking of large numbers of young walleye such as occurred in recent years in Hoover and Mosquito Reservoirs.

Armbruster further commented that he has received numerous letters from interested sportsmen indicating their interest in this type of regulation and that they would like to do their part in maintaining and rehabilitating the walleye population.

Creel census conducted by fisheries biologists this year showed that sport fishermen caught an estimated 37,000 walleye from the reef areas in Lake Erie.

Council also took necessary action to prohibit the taking of blue pike by sport and commercial fishing from Lake Erie. Like the bald eagle, the blue pike has now been placed on the rare and endangered species list by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Department of the Interior. This species is so few in number as to be in danger of extinction. Both new regulations become effective September 1, 1967.

Armbruster also announced that the Michigan Conservation Commission has passed a 15½" size limit on walleye taken by commercial fishermen in Lake Erie. Michigan is now conducting public hearings on this regulation to bring that state in line with Ohio's recent changes in regulations. Michigan already has a bag limit on 10 walleye on sport fishing in Lake Erie.

IN A JOINT report released by the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and the Ohio Division of Wildlife, the 1967 hatch of walleye in Lake Erie is listed as much better than the 1966 hatch, but "moderately successful" in comparison to those in other recent years. This evaluation, while preliminary, is based on the relative distribution and abundance of young-of-the-year fishes and is determined by the numbers taken per hour of trawling effort in the western basin from June 15 to date. It is pointed out that the status could change accordingly with the inclusion of trawl data taken during the remainder of the year. The outlook, however, is encouraging.

The trawl samplings currently under way have also revealed a good hatch of white bass and a fair hatch of yellow perch. This is also true for the many forage fishes including alewives, gizzard shad and spottails. Estimates of the varied numbers of other species including the smelt, channel catfish, and emerald shiner preclude any forecast on the degree of success for these species at this time. Among all the species in the lake, only the sheepshead appears to have enjoyed an exceptionally good hatch and survival.

In comparing the hatch records with findings in other years, it is apparent that the 1967 hatch and survival for most species was much better than that in 1966, but below the numbers produced in several of the good years of the past decade.

Two of the most sought-after species, the walleye and the yellow perch, had relatively good year classes produced in 1959, 1962 and 1965. All other year classes since 1957 were either classified as poor or fair, at best. The biologists who conduct these studies on the Lake Erie fishes are concerned over the lack of consecutively good year classes being produced. This failure, in turn, causes severe fluctuations in the harvest in later years and certainly proves detrimental to the future of the fishery.

MANY BUCKEYE hunters are anticipating the first day of the squirrel season, Sept. 8. Hunting hours will be daylight to dark and the season will extend through Nov. 11 on private land and Dec. 23 on State Public Hunting Areas. Daily limit is four and passession limit after the first day not to exceed two days legal bag limit.

Division of Wildlife fieldmen indicate the mast crop of oaks, hickorys and walnuts is good and squirrels seem to be plentiful.

Armbruster said, "our 1967 Hunting and Trapping licenses are being mailed to agents throughout the state and will be completed by August 28. The new license became effective Friday.

"With Ohio's liberal seasons and bag limits, the $4.35 resident hunting license ($20.35 for non-residents) is one of the most pleasurable investments a sportsman can make."

The Ohio Division of Wildlife reports that fishing pressure on Ohio's lakes and streams has slowed, with only spotty reports of fish being taken.

The weekend outlook by districts includes:

Lake Erie—Perch fishing remains good in most areas of the lake. Walleye very slow. Some occasionally picked up around deep waters of reef areas. Fall fishing for smallmouth bass should improve as water temperatures start down.

Northwestern Ohio—Some perch being caught in the Maumee, Portage and Sandusky rivers. Pleasant Hill, Chas. Mill and Clear Fork Reservoirs—Some bass and bluegills, fishing generally very slow.

Southwestern Ohio—Streams clear and normal with water temperatures 68 to 80 degrees. Rocky Fork Lake—Some largemouth bass on soft craws and artificial lures. Bluegills on worms and poppers. Acton Lake—Bass in late evenings on surface lures. Cowan Lake—Some bluegill and bass. Stonelick—Good bluegills with few bass.

Southeastern Ohio—Piedmont Lake—Muskie fair, best for channel catfish and crappie. Lake Logan—Bass and channel catfish fair, good area for snapper turtle. Hammerstown Reservoir—Good for nice yellow perch, few bass and channel catfish. Burr Oak—Slowed down for bass, bluegill and redear sun fish. Dillon Reservoir—Water level very low. Jackson Lake—Bass and bluegill best, some channel catfish.

Northwestern Ohio—Magadore Reservoir—Bluegills, bass, perch and few muskie. Berlin Reservoir — Catfish and carp. Lake Milton—Bluegills best, slow for catfish. Clendening—Channel catfish slowed down—Fair bass and bluegills. Mosquito Reservoir—Channel catfish, white bass and few walleye.

THE WEST VIRGINIA Natural Resources Department says most fishing streams and lakes in the state should be at normal levels, but milky, this weekend.

The prediction was made contingent upon no additional rainfall before Saturday.

Area Servicemen In Vietnam

By LIDA SMITH

Keeping the vehicles in running condition in the dusty, hot terrain of the Chu Lai area, 50 miles south of Da Nang, is nothing new to a Chester man who was a truck driver before entering the service.

Army Sgt. Thomas Lewis Govey, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Govey of 323 Indiana Ave., Chester, works in a motor pool. He pointed out that the dust of the country is hard on the machines.

Govey was employed by the Murray Trucking Co. and plans to continue driving after his discharge, his mother said.

THE BUILDINGS in which he works are situated near the coast and he has clean clothes and good food — and considers himself luckier in that respect than some of the other men stationed in Vietnam. And there are church services every Sunday.

His mother, recalling that her son became a sergeant within 15 months, summarized her feelings relative to the war zone this way:

"My son is no better than the others. When one boy is killed, not only his mother but all mothers share the grief—a sort of common, unspoken mourning."

Sgt. Govey is slated to leave Vietnam about Sept. 25.

Govey, who described the countryside as being like that of West Virginia and the water very warm, said that because of the heat and the ever present thought of the enemy the men find it difficult to sleep. And of course, the large guns, firing constantly, aren't at all conducive to sleeping either, he added.

IN A RECENT letter, Govey had this to say:

"First of all, I'll tell you that I'm fine, in case you heard on television what I'm about to tell you. Day before yesterday in the afternoon, about 3:30, a 'chopper' crashed in our camp. It crashed right on top of 240 rounds of 155 howitzer ammunition that was ready to be fired at a minute's notice. They were fused up and everything with the powder sitting next to them. As soon as it crashed, it caught on fire. They pulled three men out, but couldn't get the other one. About 10 minutes later the rounds went off, and I was making tracks to the other side of the hill. There were three men dead and four in the hospital that evening (the three were from the chopper). Our camp went up in fire and smoke. I lost two trucks and one trailer."

Govey also serves on guard duty at the post and said that after 8 p. m. anything or anyone beyond the fence may be shot if an unauthorized entrance is attempted.

When asked about the people her son has met in Vietnam, Mrs. Govey said he has reported meeting some girls from the Red Cross, but no others.

A COMPANY paper the sergeant sent home to his parents contained a brief description of the loss of the battery commander, Capt. James C. McKittrick, and 1st Sgt. Eward J. Guillory, missing in action.

He also enclosed two poefs written by his friends. One, "It's Our Stand," concluded with, "But it (Vietnam) will have its freedom some day. The reason: "We Americans will stand." The other, entitled "Lonely Man," describes the feelings of the G. I. fighting in Vietnam for a purpose he and his fellow soldiers understand, even if some of the folks back home can't.

At home, his mother and father, and brother, Timothy, 5, await Govey's return, and hope that the extension being tacked onto the time of some of the men in Vietnam is overlooked in his case.

Until his return, you may write Sgt. Govey at this address:

Inspiration For Today

THE BIBLE

By J. B. ROSE
Chester Church of the Nazarene

Psalms 119:105 "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a lamp unto my path"

"What are you reading?," Polonius asked Hamlet. "Words, Words, Words," replied the young prince without even looking up.

I am afraid that this is what we often do when we attempt to read the Bible. We take it as "words" and fail to realize that here is God's message to humanity and that man needs so badly to listen and comprehend.

Man is concerned with the problem of communication with God, communication with man and an understanding of himself. This all deals with ethics for we are well aware that ethics is one of the major disciplines of life. God tells us how to get along with our fellow man, with ourselves, and with Him. The answer is found in the Bible.

PHILOSOPHICAL, speculative, and other human systems of ethics end in futility. In the stress and storms that try men's souls, these human systems have been weighed in the balances and found wanting.

Their search for an adequate standard of values and the means of attaining it, like the tower of Babel, ends in confusion. May I point to the manual of Christian ethics, the Bible.

If the Bible is to be profitable to you, then accept it as it is and as it is written. The Bible recognizes no system of ethics per se. It makes no postulates, proposes no hypotheses lays down no stated method of procedures, and appeals to no supporting authorities. It contains no footnotes or quotes from the codes of Hummurabi, the clay tablets of Babylon, the brass cylinders of Sennacherib, or the works of Plato.

The Bible writers sent out no questionnaires. They made no survey of contemporary thought. They constructed no graphs. They appointed no committees to formulate a statement of objectives and ultimate values. They wrote as they were inspired by the Spirit of God.

Believing that the bible is God's message, I can accept it's instructions for my behaviour. May I suggest:

1. The Bible is the one authorative foundation for Christian ethics.

2. The Bible is an adequate foundation and covers the subject thoroughly.

3. The Bible relates ethics to beliefs.

4. The Bible relates ethics to life.

MY ATTEMPT to act right, talk right, live right is not contingent upon what anyone or anything else does or fails to do. "What is that to you. . . serve me" would be the answer of the Christ. The Bible promises divine assistance in following its instructions regardless of what happens, or is said, or what is withheld.

Be assured that you can be the kind of person God wants you to be. You can find and do the will of God. "Thou will show me the path of life" and the bible will shed light on that path, enabling me to walk unafraid and without falling.

No, the bible is more than just words. It is the word of God.

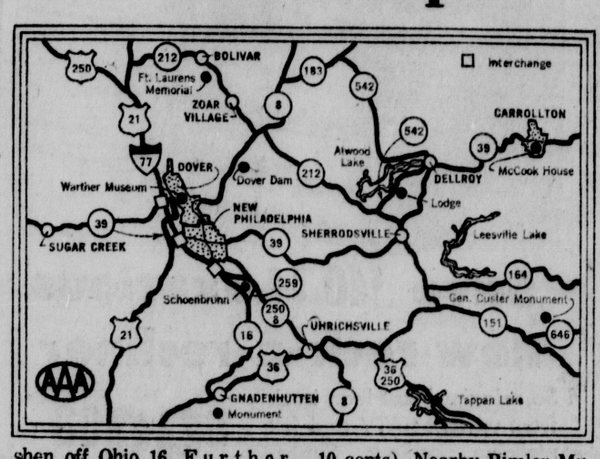
Schoenbrunn Village is the authentic restoration of the first settlement in what was to be Ohio and alone makes worthwhile a drive to the historic and picturesque Tuscarawas County area.

Zoar Village, Gnadenhutten Monument and Ft. Laurens Memorial are interesting historical attractions, espcially with scenic drives between them so plentiful. For a meal stop or overnight stay, there's the new Muskingum Conservance District lodge at Atwood Lake.

At Schoenbrunn, which means "beautiful spring," the church, school, 13 log cabins and cemetery (God's Acre) have been restored from more than 60 structures built by David Zeisberger and the band of Indians and Moravians he led there in 1772.

The Moravian effort to Christianize the Indians prospered until 1777, but the settlement was caught between opposing sides in the Revolutionary War and was abandoned and destroyed. "Found" 150 years later, it has been in restoration over 40 years. A museum and well kept picnic area also are on the grounds.

Zeisbergers grave is at Goshen off Ohio 16. Further south at Gnadenhutten is a monument marking the scene of a massacre of 96 Indians by renegade whites in 1782. Nearby is a museum and the oldest grave in Ohio (1775).



Ft. Laurens Memorial, off Ohio 212, is the sight of the only Revolutionary War fort in Ohio. A few miles south is Zoar Village, where an early effort at communal living prospered for more than 70 years, before it dissolved in 1898.

Of special interest at Zoar is Number One House, restored home of Joseph Baumler leader of the religious Separatists. Hours are 9 to 5. Admission is 25 cents (children 10 cents). Nearby Bimler Museum is free.

Between stops at historic sights in Dover is the workshop and museum of master carver Ernest Warther (331 Karl Ave.). Among many working models are those tracing the history of steam locomotives.

Atwood Lake Lodge is on a large swimming, fishing and boating lake. It has over 100 rooms, a fine restaurant, and is close to other recreational attractions. Double room rates are $13-17.

The Columbiana County Club suggests this routing to the tour area: From East Liverpool Route 7 to Route 39 to tour area.

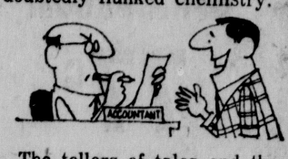
You're getting old, friend, when you no longer have the little - boy urge to walk up a "down" escalator.

The fellow who invented the "formula" television show undoubtedly flunked chemistry.



The tellers of tales and the weavers of stories have been supplanted as creators of folklore by the compilers of expense accounts.

Only folks who first launch them have the ghost of a chance to see their ships come in.

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — How will men spend their time in 2000 A.D. when machines are doing all the work?

Science fiction writers may have come up with an answer: "They'll watch girls—because there'll be so much of the girls to watch."

This sociological discovery became apparent Friday night when about a thousand whistling, applauding, camera-snapping sci-fi buffs and their literary heroes—mostly men in both cases—attended a futuristic fashion show staged by Galaxy magazine for the World Science Fiction Convention. Their rousing approval was enough to make a Parisian couturier turn simply chartreuse with envy.

A huge success was predictable, however, for what red-blooded space fan could fail to be galvanized by fashions that make miniskirts look like Mother Hubbards?

About a score of nonprofessional models—some chubby teen-agers and all friends or relatives of science fiction people—paraded somewhat uncertainly up and down the runway of the convention hotel's ballroom wearing:

—What looked like a couple of barrel staves hanging horizontally—and strategically;

—A long, A-line cellophane gown over black tights and boots;

—A short dancing dress of tiered pouffs of lemon, apricot and coffee-colored chiffon that bared one bosom except for a pasty;

—A gold lame, tear-apart dress that, after floor-length skirt and wrist-length sleeves had been removed, extended not one millimeter lower than it had to;

—A paper minismock that, retreating, revealed a bare back and brief panties;

—An office minidress that looked demure enough until the tunic came off to present formidable decolletage;

—A bikini of synthetic white fur with flashing lights;

—A wedding dress with veil and bell bottom pants, and a heart-shaped patch on the bride's cheek; —Asymmetrical costumes sporting one long pants leg and one very brief panty leg, one high boot and one sandal, one bare arm and one frilly sleeve.

With so much bare anatomy for scrutiny in the years ahead, one scientific advance seems inevitable. Climate control will have to be perfected in the next few decades, or women 2000 A.D. will have chronic cases of triple pneumonia.

Stolen Car Recovered By New Jersey Police

A 1967 convertible stolen from an East Liverpool man nearly a month ago was recovered early Friday afternoon by police in Florence, N. J., as they interrupted an armed robbery, local officers were advised.

The arrest of the two suspects led to recovery of the car which Sanders Firestone of Manor Ln. reported stolen Aug. 5 from a parking place on W. 6th St. The vehicle was removed temporarily to the police garage at Florence.

The Florence department advised its officers took the two men into custody as they were in the act of staging a robbery. It said one of the suspects resides at Pittsburgh and the other gave an address in Levittown, Pa. The recovery of Firestone's car was reported at 1:45 p. m.

Camera Club Names Outstanding Photographs From Annual Salon For Tri-State Area Fans

FeaturePages

and for getting the right picture they were named winners in the competition.

There were 145 pictures entered by 35 photographers and over 500 people attended the salon. The entries were up over the 111 of last year.

A show winner must meet the basic requirements of good photography, including proper focus, appropriate lighting, balance composition, eye appeal and a uniqueness which sets his work apart from an ordinary photo.

The purpose of the salon is to stimulate interest and develop skills in photography in the area. Men and women of all ages are in the Camera Club and their equipment varies from the simple box camera to the more complex equipment.

Judges Sunday were Jack Horsley of Horsley Studio, J. Nessley Porter, local architect, and Marvin Triguba of the Taylor, Smith and Taylor Co.

The Tri-State Camera Club meets the first Friday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. building in Glenmoor. Anyone interested in photography is welcome to attend, the officers pointed out.

The American Pavilion at Expo 67 was the subject for this picture, which was judged best of show. The human interest shot was taken by Bob Weaver of 310 Carolina Ave., East Liverpool.

F. M. Duncan of Leetonia snapped this winning human interest photo in Duc Pho, Vietnam.

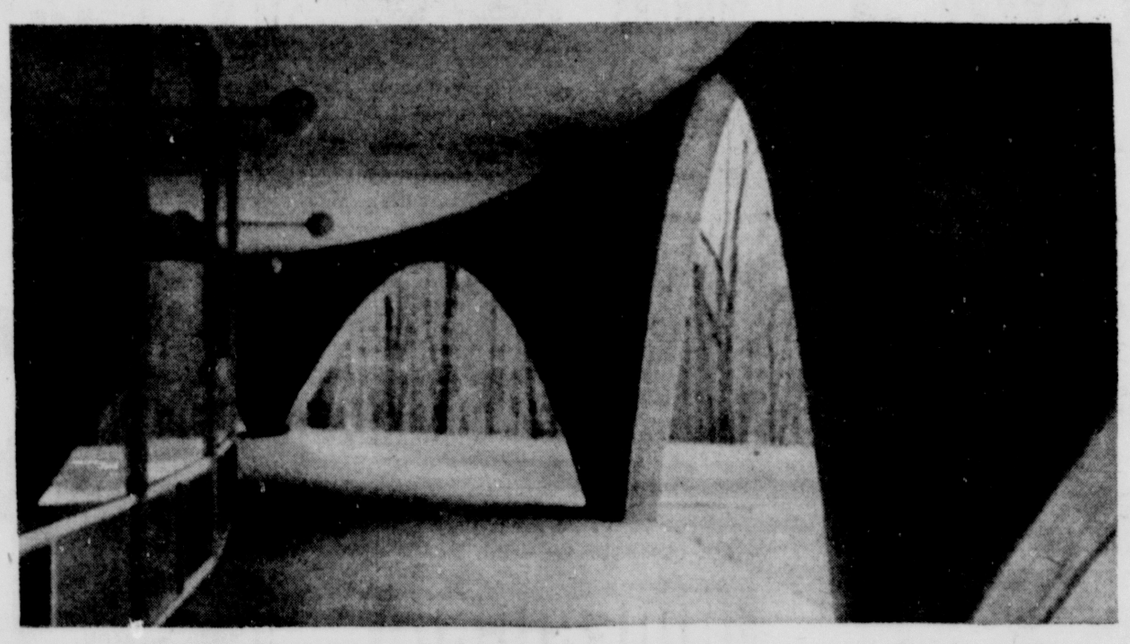
Still life was taken by Bob Poole of Westfield Rd. who painted light using an open shutter in total darkness.



John Ciccarelli of 623 Carolina Ave., Chester found the American Metals Society building at Newbury, Ohio, an interesting study in architecture to capture first place in the architecture black and white division. He used an Ikoflex camera with zeiss twin lens.

The Ohio River offered this view in a first place scenic black and white by W. C. Smith of Campground Rd.

First place in human interest color was submitted by W. H. Lowe of Cannons Mills in a shot of branches and people taken in the Quetico Superior National Forest near the Canadian Border at Knife Lake, Minn.

Company Honors Lengthy Service Of Leo Lawrence

Leo C. Lawrence of Midway Ln. was honored Friday noon with a luncheon at the Inn Town Motel on completion of 35 years' service with the local office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

An office account representative, Lawrence was praised by John Misitigh, manager, for his long service and "his unswerving devotion to his duties and his participation in many civic activities that have earned him a spot in the heart of the community." He pointed out Lawrence is one of the top agents in Metropolitan's district office and a member of its Honor Club.

Lawrence joined the company Sept. 5, 1932, following in the footsteps of his father, Earl Lawrence, who also was a Metropolitan agent. He and his father have combined service totaling 73 years.

Black Box Will Aid Helicopters In Viet

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP) — A Roswell electronics firm is coming up with a black box to foil black-clad Viet Cong bringing down U.S. helicopters in Vietnam.

Bill Underhill, president of Electronics Industries, said the device would be placed in helicopter cockpits to pick up sounds of enemy bullets, fired within 50 yards.

The detector would indicate the sounds of fire on the helicopter's control panel and cause a beeping noise in the pilot's headset. He said noise level in helicopters is so high that sometimes the pilot doesn't hear the shots aimed at him.

The Army is to begin tests of the device in Vietnam soon, Underhill said Thursday.

Contract Is Let On Expressway

The Pennsylvania Highways Department at Harrisburg has announced award of the $6,108,-294 contract for the Beaver Valley Expressway in Allegheny and Beaver counties to Frank Mashuda Co., Inc. of Evans City.

The improvement is part of the department's accelerated road building program under the direction of Highways Secretary Robert G. Bartlett to provide Pennsylvania with a "Highway System of Excellence," proposed by Gov. Shafer when he assumed office.

The 3.45-mile improvement consists of divided highway with interchange ramps and side roads in Moon and Hopewell Townships, located between the Greater Pittsburgh Airport and Aliquippa. Bids were opened June 30.

Date for the start of construction will be set at a preconstruction meeting within the next several weeks by the Pittsburgh District Office of the State Highways Department with the contractor.

Completion of the project is anticipated during 1969.

Car And Rig Involved In East End Collision

An Allegheny County (Pa.) trucker told police Friday his tractor - trailer rig was undamaged in a collision with an auto on Pennsylvania Ave. at Park Way in East End.

Gene R. Lance, 32, of Clinton RD 1 told Patrolman Jerry F. Adkins the rig, owned by Robert C. Butterfield of Georgetown RD 1, was struck from the rear by an unidentified car while halted for a traffic light at the intersection. Lance called police, but the other driver left the scene because his vehicle was the only one which suffered damage, the trucker said.

Marshall Takes Oath As Justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The grandson of a slave has been sworn into office as the nation's first Negro justice of the Supreme Court.

Thurgood Marshall, son of a sleeping car porter and a long-time battler for equal rights for Negroes, took the "constitutional" oath of office in a quiet, private ceremony Friday.

Officiating at the swearing-in was Justice Hugo L. Black, at 81 the court's oldest member. During the oath-taking he directed Marshall's attention to a section in a Gideon Bible that read: "And so abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."

Black, a former two-term U.S. Senator from Alabama who has served on the court 30 years, once belonged to the Klan. Later, as a lawmaker and justice, he became a staunch defender of civil liberties.

Marshall, 59, said after the ceremony he'll begin work next Tuesday. By taking the oath to support and defend the U.S. Constitution, he is empowered to perform all judicial duties except decide cases.

He is expected to take a public or "judicial" oath—in which he must swear to administer justice to all—when the court reconvenes for its new term Oct. 2.

The ceremony in Black's office was witnessed by Mrs. Marshall, the Marshall sons, Thurgood Jr., 11, and John William, 9, Justice William J. Brennan Jr., Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, Mrs. Black and T. Perry Lippitt, the court's marshal.

It was to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Clark's father, former Justice Tom Clark, that President Johnson appointed Marshall to the high court bench June 13.

And as U.S. solicitor general, Marshall served briefly under Ramsey Clark, appointed attorney general earlier this year.

Mrs. Marshall described the oath-taking as thrilling and acknowledged she still has "butterflies in my stomach" from Wednesday's Senate confirmation of Marshall by a 69-11 margin.

Marshall served as a federal judge, appointed by the late President John F. Kennedy, before being named solicitor general. Prior to that he served for many years as chief legal counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in which capacity he won 29 of 32 civil rights cases before the Supreme Court.

Outdoor Notes

By HARRY STEWART
Review Staff Member

Dan C. Armbruster, chief, Ohio Division of Wildlife, has announced the following waterfowl seasons for 1967.

Hunting hours one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Season for ducks, coots, gallinule and mergansers October 17 through November 25, 1967.

Seasons for geese Oct. 17 through Dec. 18, 1967, and Dec. 26 through Jan. 1, 1968.

Bag limits, Ducks - daily limit 4, possession limit after first day 8. However, the daily bag limit may not include more than the following species - two mallard, one woodduck and one canvasback. Duck possession limit after the first day may not include more than the following species - four mallard, two woodduck and one canvasback.

The limits on American, red-breasted and hooded mergansers, in the aggregate of these species, are five daily and 10 in possession of which not more than one daily and two in possession, may be hooded mergansers.

Gallinules, daily bag limit, 15, possession limit after first day, 30.

Geese, bag and possession limit, 5, however, not more than 2 Canada geese, or sub-species; or, 2 white-fronted geese, or 1 Canada goose or sub-species, and 1 white-fronted goose, may be taken or possessed in one day.

Bonus Scaup Area; Beginning Nov. 1, 1967 and throughout the remainder of duck season a person may take 2 scaup and possess 4 scaup in addition to the 4 ducks per day limit and 8 possession limit in the following decribed area: all water area of Lake Erie, in Ohio, lying east of an imaginary line running due north from the confluence of the west bank of Rocky River and Lake Erie to the International Boundary.

NEW FISHING regulations have been announced by the Wildlife Council with a daily bag limit of 10 on walleye for sport fishermen throughout the state.

The statewide bag limit was necessary in order to preserve the spawning runs in the Sandusky River, Grand River, and the well established run in the Mahoning River below Berlin Dam. The 10 fish daily limit will also control the taking of large numbers of young walleye such as occurred in recent years in Hoover and Mosquito Reservoirs.

Armbruster further commented that he has received numerous letters from interested sportsmen indicating their interest in this type of regulation and that they would like to do their part in maintaining and rehabilitating the walleye population.

Creel census conducted by fisheries biologists this year showed that sport fishermen caught an estimated 37,000 walleye from the reef areas in Lake Erie.

Council also took necessary action to prohibit the taking of blue pike by sport and commercial fishing from Lake Erie. Like the bald eagle, the blue pike has now been placed on the rare and endangered species list by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Department of the Interior. This species is so few in number as to be in danger of extinction. Both new regulations become effective September 1, 1967.

Armbruster also announced that the Michigan Conservation Commission has passed a 15½" size limit on walleye taken by commercial fishermen in Lake Erie. Michigan is now conducting public hearings on this regulation to bring that state in line with Ohio's recent changes in regulations. Michigan already has a bag limit on 10 walleye on sport fishing in Lake Erie.

IN A JOINT report released by the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and the Ohio Division of Wildlife, the 1967 hatch of walleye in Lake Erie is listed as much better than the 1966 hatch, but "moderately successful" in comparison to those in other recent years. This evaluation, while preliminary, is based on the relative distribution and abundance of young-of-the-year fishes and is determined by the numbers taken per hour of trawling effort in the western basin from June 15 to date. It is pointed out that the status could change accordingly with the inclusion of trawl data taken during the remainder of the year. The outlook, however, is encouraging.

The trawl samplings currently under way have also revealed a good hatch of white bass and a fair hatch of yellow perch. This is also true for the many forage fishes including alewives, gizzard shad and spottails. Estimates of the varied numbers of other species including the smelt, channel catfish, and emerald shiner preclude any forecast on the degree of success for these species at this time. Among all the species in the lake, only the sheepshead appears to have enjoyed an exceptionally good hatch and survival.

In comparing the hatch records with findings in other years, it is apparent that the 1967 hatch and survival for most species was much better than that in 1966, but below the numbers produced in several of the good years of the past decade.

Two of the most sought-after species, the walleye and the yellow perch, had relatively good year classes produced in 1959, 1962 and 1965. All other year classes since 1957 were either classified as poor or fair, at best. The biologists who conduct these studies on the Lake Erie fishes are concerned over the lack of consecutively good year classes being produced. This failure, in turn, causes severe fluctuations in the harvest in later years and certainly proves detrimental to the future of the fishery.

MANY BUCKEYE hunters are anticipating the first day of the squirrel season, Sept. 8. Hunting hours will be daylight to dark and the season will extend through Nov. 11 on private land and Dec. 23 on State Public Hunting Areas. Daily limit is four and passession limit after the first day not to exceed two days legal bag limit.

Division of Wildlife fieldmen indicate the mast crop of oaks, hickorys and walnuts is good and squirrels seem to be plentiful.

Armbruster said, "our 1967 Hunting and Trapping licenses are being mailed to agents throughout the state and will be completed by August 28. The new license became effective Friday.

"With Ohio's liberal seasons and bag limits, the $4.35 resident hunting license ($20.35 for non-residents) is one of the most pleasurable investments a sportsman can make."

The Ohio Division of Wildlife reports that fishing pressure on Ohio's lakes and streams has slowed, with only spotty reports of fish being taken.

The weekend outlook by districts includes:

Lake Erie—Perch fishing remains good in most areas of the lake. Walleye very slow. Some occasionally picked up around deep waters of reef areas. Fall fishing for smallmouth bass should improve as water temperatures start down.

Northwestern Ohio—Some perch being caught in the Maumee, Portage and Sandusky rivers. Pleasant Hill, Chas. Mill and Clear Fork Reservoirs—Some bass and bluegills, fishing generally very slow.

Southwestern Ohio—Streams clear and normal with water temperatures 68 to 80 degrees. Rocky Fork Lake—Some largemouth bass on soft craws and artificial lures. Bluegills on worms and poppers. Acton Lake—Bass in late evenings on surface lures. Cowan Lake—Some bluegill and bass. Stonelick—Good bluegills with few bass.

Southeastern Ohio—Piedmont Lake—Muskie fair, best for channel catfish and crappie. Lake Logan—Bass and channel catfish fair, good area for snapper turtle. Hammerstown Reservoir—Good for nice yellow perch, few bass and channel catfish. Burr Oak—Slowed down for bass, bluegill and redear sun fish. Dillon Reservoir—Water level very low. Jackson Lake—Bass and bluegill best, some channel catfish.

Northwestern Ohio—Magadore Reservoir—Bluegills, bass, perch and few muskie. Berlin Reservoir — Catfish and carp. Lake Milton—Bluegills best, slow for catfish. Clendening—Channel catfish slowed down—Fair bass and bluegills. Mosquito Reservoir—Channel catfish, white bass and few walleye.

THE WEST VIRGINIA Natural Resources Department says most fishing streams and lakes in the state should be at normal levels, but milky, this weekend.

The prediction was made contingent upon no additional rainfall before Saturday.

Area Servicemen In Vietnam

By LIDA SMITH

Keeping the vehicles in running condition in the dusty, hot terrain of the Chu Lai area, 50 miles south of Da Nang, is nothing new to a Chester man who was a truck driver before entering the service.

Army Sgt. Thomas Lewis Govey, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Govey of 323 Indiana Ave., Chester, works in a motor pool. He pointed out that the dust of the country is hard on the machines.

Govey was employed by the Murray Trucking Co. and plans to continue driving after his discharge, his mother said.

THE BUILDINGS in which he works are situated near the coast and he has clean clothes and good food — and considers himself luckier in that respect than some of the other men stationed in Vietnam. And there are church services every Sunday.

His mother, recalling that her son became a sergeant within 15 months, summarized her feelings relative to the war zone this way:

"My son is no better than the others. When one boy is killed, not only his mother but all mothers share the grief—a sort of common, unspoken mourning."

Sgt. Govey is slated to leave Vietnam about Sept. 25.

Govey, who described the countryside as being like that of West Virginia and the water very warm, said that because of the heat and the ever present thought of the enemy the men find it difficult to sleep. And of course, the large guns, firing constantly, aren't at all conducive to sleeping either, he added.

IN A RECENT letter, Govey had this to say:

"First of all, I'll tell you that I'm fine, in case you heard on television what I'm about to tell you. Day before yesterday in the afternoon, about 3:30, a 'chopper' crashed in our camp. It crashed right on top of 240 rounds of 155 howitzer ammunition that was ready to be fired at a minute's notice. They were fused up and everything with the powder sitting next to them. As soon as it crashed, it caught on fire. They pulled three men out, but couldn't get the other one. About 10 minutes later the rounds went off, and I was making tracks to the other side of the hill. There were three men dead and four in the hospital that evening (the three were from the chopper). Our camp went up in fire and smoke. I lost two trucks and one trailer."

Govey also serves on guard duty at the post and said that after 8 p. m. anything or anyone beyond the fence may be shot if an unauthorized entrance is attempted.

When asked about the people her son has met in Vietnam, Mrs. Govey said he has reported meeting some girls from the Red Cross, but no others.

A COMPANY paper the sergeant sent home to his parents contained a brief description of the loss of the battery commander, Capt. James C. McKittrick, and 1st Sgt. Eward J. Guillory, missing in action.

He also enclosed two poefs written by his friends. One, "It's Our Stand," concluded with, "But it (Vietnam) will have its freedom some day, The reason: "We Americans will stand." The other, entitled "Lonely Man," describes the feelings of the G. I. fighting in Vietnam for a purpose he and his fellow soldiers understand, even if some of the folks back home can't.

At home, his mother and father, and brother, Timothy, 5, await Govey's return, and hope that the extension being tacked onto the time of some of the men in Vietnam is overlooked in his case.

Until his return, you may write Sgt. Govey at this address:

By J. B. ROSE
Chester Church of the Nazarene

REV. ROSE

"What are you reading?," Polonius asked Hamlet. "Words, Words, Words," replied the young prince without even looking up.

I am afraid that this is what we often do when we attempt to read the Bible. We take it as "words" and fail to realize that here is God's message to humanity and that man needs so badly to listen and comprehend.

Man is concerned with the problem of communication with God, communication with man and an understanding of himself. This all deals with ethics for we are well aware that ethics is one of the major disciplines of life. God tells us how to get along with our fellow man, with ourselves, and with Him. The answer is found in the Bible.

PHILOSOPHICAL, speculative, and other human systems of ethics end in futility. In the stress and storms that try men's souls, these human systems have been weighed in the balances and found wanting.

Their search for an adequate standard of values and the means of attaining it, like the tower of Babel, ends in confusion. May I point to the manual of Christian ethics, the Bible.

If the Bible is to be profitable to you, then accept it as it is and as it is written. The Bible recognizes no system of ethics per se. It makes no postulates, proposes no hypotheses lays down no stated method of procedures, and appeals to no supporting authorities. It contains no footnotes or quotes from the codes of Hummurabi, the clay tablets of Babylon, the brass cylinders of Sennacherib, or the works of Plato.

The Bible writers sent out no questionnaires. They made no survey of contemporary thought. They constructed no graphs. They appointed no committees to formulate a statement of objectives and ultimate values. They wrote as they were inspired by the Spirit of God.

Believing that the bible is God's message, I can accept it's instructions for my behaviour. May I suggest:

1. The Bible is the one authorative foundation for Christian ethics.

2. The Bible is an adequate foundation and covers the subject thoroughly.

3. The Bible relates ethics to beliefs.

4. The Bible relates ethics to life.

MY ATTEMPT to act right, talk right, live right is not contingent upon what anyone or anything else does or fails to do. "What is that to you. . . serve me" would be the answer of the Christ. The Bible promises divine assistance in following its instructions regardless of what happens, or is said, or what is withheld.

Be assured that you can be the kind of person God wants you to be. You can find and do the will of God. "Thou will show me the path of life" and the bible will shed light on that path, enabling me to walk unafraid and without falling.

No, the bible is more than just words. It is the word of God.

Tri-State Tour Tips

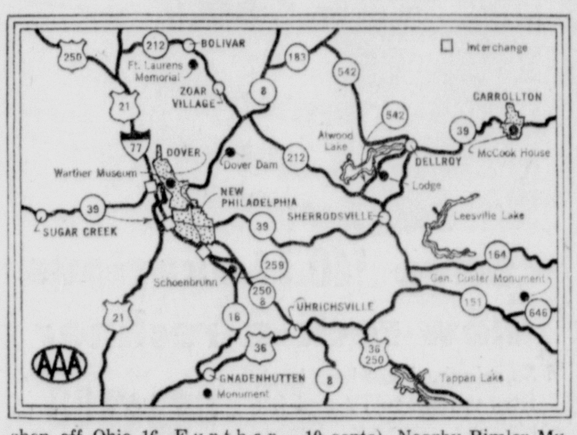
Schoenbrunn Village is the authentic restoration of the first settlement in what was to be Ohio and alone makes worthwhile a drive to the historic and picturesque Tuscarawas County area.

Zoar Village, Gnadenhutten Monument and Ft. Laurens Memorial are interesting historical attractions, espcially with scenic drives between them so plentiful. For a meal stop or overnight stay, there's the new Muskingum Conservance District lodge at Atwood Lake.

At Schoenbrunn, which means "beautiful spring," the church, school, 13 log cabins and cemetery (God's Acre) have been restored from more than 60 structures built by David Zeisberger and the band of Indians and Moravians he led there in 1772.

The Moravian effort to Christianize the Indians prospered until 1777, but the settlement was caught between opposing sides in the Revolutionary War and was abandoned and destroyed. "Found" 150 years later, it has been in restoration over 40 years. A museum and well kept picnic area also are on the grounds.

Zeisbergers grave is at Goshen off Ohio 16. Further south at Gnadenhutten is a monument marking the scene of a massacre of 96 Indians by renegade whites in 1782. Nearby is a museum and the oldest grave in Ohio (1775).



Ft. Laurens Memorial, off Ohio 212, is the sight of the only Revolutionary War fort in Ohio. A few miles south is Zoar Village, where an early effort at communal living prospered for more than 70 years, before it dissolved in 1898.

Of special interest at Zoar is Number One House, restored home of Joseph Baumler leader of the religious Separatists. Hours are 9 to 5. Admission is 25 cents (children 10 cents). Nearby Bimler Museum is free.

Between stops at historic sights in Dover is the workshop and museum of master carver Ernest Warther (331 Karl Ave.). Among many working models are those tracing the history of steam locomotives.

Atwood Lake Lodge is on a large swimming, fishing and boating lake. It has over 100 rooms, a fine restaurant, and is close to other recreational attractions. Double room rates are $13-17.

The Columbiana County Club suggests this routing to the tour area: From East Liverpool Route 7 to Route 39 to tour area.

Twins Win, Trail By Half Game

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fenway Park has opened its arms again to Ken Harrelson and the Boston Red Sox. Minnesota's Municipal Stadium has turned a cold shoulder on Ed Mathews and the Detroit Tigers.

Harrelson and Mathews, prize late-season pick-ups for the Red Sox and Tigers, respectively, found themselves in the thick of the American League pennant scramble Friday night - with different results.

Harrelson, signed by Boston last week after being dropped by Kansas City, drove in four runs with a homer, triple and double as the Red Sox emerged from a hitting slump, pounded Chicago 10-2 and clung to first place.

Mathews, acquired by Detroit in an inter-league trade with Houston last month, committed two first-inning errors as the Tigers fumbled away a 5-4 decision to the second place Twins at Minsesota.

The Red Sox still lead the Twins by one half-game while third place Detroit is two games behind and the fourth-place White Sox trail by 2½.

California rallied for two runs in the ninth inning and a 4-3 triumph over Cleveland, the New York Yankees edged Washington 2-1 in 12 innings on Mike Hegan's first major league homer and Baltimore shaded Kansas City 2-1 in other AL games.

In the National League, San Francisco outlasted Cincinnati 1-0 in 21 innings, St. Louis banked Houston 5-0, Pittsburgh shut out Philadelphia 3-0, Los Angeles topped Atlanta 6-4 and New York divided a doubleheader with Chicago, the Mets taking the nightcap 3-0 after the Cubs won the opener 8-2.

"I always did like to hit in this park," Harrelson said after leading Boston's 13-hit assault with a two-run triple in the first inning, a bases-empty homer in the fifth and a run-producing double in the seventh.

"I drove in five runs in one game a couple of years ago, and I had a cuple of good days here with the Athletics earlier this season."

The Red Sox, who had managed just two hits in Thursday night's 4-2 loss to Chicago, battered White Sox' ace Gary Peters for seven runs in the first two innings and breezed the rest of the way behind the strong pitching of Jose Santiago.

Mathews, who has driven in eight runs in 13 games with the Tigers, made a two-base throwing error on Harmon Killebrew's grounder in the first inning at Minnesota, then slipped on the slick infield after fielding Cesar Tovar's bouncer and was unable to make the play.

Each of his errors sent runs across the plate and two more Detroit miscues in the third gave the Twins another unearned tally.

Southpaw Jim Kaat, staked to an early 5-2 lead, withstood Bill Freehan's ninth insing homer and boosted his season record to 10-13.

Trailing 3-2 in the ninth, the Angels pushed over the tying run against Sam McDowell on a walk and singles by Bob Taylor and Bobby Knoop. After another walk filled the bases, first baseman Tony Horton booted Jimmie Hall's two-out grounder as the winning run crossed the plate.

Curt Blefary lashed a run-scoring single in the ninth inning to lift the Orioles past Kansas City. Pete Richert blanked the A's after the first inning, when they scored without benefit of a hit.

South Side Has 15 Lettermen Back Should Improve 2-6-1 Mark Of '66

Charlton, who was a junior high coach at East Liverpool last year while George Zanic handled the varsity, has 15 lettermen and misses only three starters.

Peden, 6-2, 185, is the most powerful runner on the team. Doak can pass well, says Charlton, and the team will try to balance running and passing. He calls his offense multiple, running all variations of the T.

South Side will employ a 6-2 defense. Some lettermen defensive stalwarts are Bruce Dunlevy and Roger McCarrell at linebackers and Ray Swearingen at halfback. Also slated to see action on defense are Rick Stevens, a junior tackle, and Greg Trimble at end. Other lettermen are Ed Reed and Jason Allison.

The Rams compete in Class B of the WPIAL, and Charlton tabs Avella as one of the top Class B teams. He looks for Avalon to be one of the big hurdles on his class B schedule, and figures Western Beaver and Center Twp. to be tough because of the traditional rivalries between these schools and South Side. The Rams open with Class A Donora, which also promises to be a stern test.

The complete schedule:
Sept. 9—Donora
Sept. 16—at Avalon
Sept. 23—Edgewood
Sept. 30—at Sharpsburg
Oct. 7—Millvale
Oct. 14—Oakdale Boys Home
Oct. 21—at Avonworth
Oct. 28—Western Beaver at Midland (night)
Nov. 4—Center Twp.

Giants Nip Reds In 21 Innings

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gaylord Perry's scoreless-inning streak is longer than Cincinnati's, but no one can say the Reds didn't make a try for it.

The record books got a good thumbing through Friday night — make that Saturday morning — as scoreless inning piled on scoreless inning before San Francisco mercifully got a bases-loaded walk in the 21st frame from Bob Lee and won 1-0.

Perry went the first 16 innings for the Giants, leaving for a pinch hitter in the 17th. He gave up 10 hits and struck out 12. Perry hasn't allowed a run in 29 innings and the night's work lowered his earned-run average from 3.17 to 2.96.

The end finally came when, with one out in the 21st, Jim Hart singled, Ollie Brown doubled, Hal Lanier was walked intentionally and Dick Groat was walked unintentionally, forcing in Hart.

The game will go into the record books under the following classifications:

Longest night game in National League history.

Longest 1-0 game.

Tie for the most innings played without a run. The Boston Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates played 20 scoreless innings in 1918 before Pittsburgh won 2-0.

In other National League action Friday, St. Louis blanked Houston 5-0, Pittsburgh shut out Philadelphia 3-0, Los Angeles beat Atlanta 6-4 and Chicago split a doubleheader with New York 8-2 and 0-3.

In the American League, Boston bombed Chicago 10-2, Baltimore nipped Kansas City 2-1, New York edged Washington 2-1 in 12 innings, Minnesota outlasted Detroit 5-4 and California beat Cleveland 4-3.

Mel Queen went the first 9 1-3 innings for Cincinnati and both clubs had plenty of scoring chances. The Giants finished with 15 hits and the Reds with 12.

Nelson Briles gave up eight hits, but kept the Astros from scoring while Lou Brock belted a homer and Tim McCarver drove in a pair of runs for the league-leading Cardinals. Bruce Von Hoff, 0-2, was the loser.

Woody Fryman struck out 15 Phillie batters and gave up just three hits in winning his third game of the season against seven defeats. He missed Bob Veale's Pirate strikeout record by one. Matty Alou and Bill Mazeroski drove in runs.

The Dodgers got homers from Bob Bailey, Willie Davis and Al Ferrara to win their fifth game in six starts. Ferrara's shot in the fifth inning broke a 4-4 tie. Joe Torre hit his 19th homer and drove in two runs for the Braves.

Injuries Mark Opening Round In U.S. Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — This is the day Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., begins a quest to become the first American to win a U.S. tennis championship since Darlene Hard was successful in 1961.

It is also the day a couple of former men's title holders, Roy Emerson of Australia and 44-year-old Vic Seixas, continue their bid in second round matches and it is also the day the harried committee hopes the injury jinx will end.

"I don't think I'm running a tournament," quipped Ernest Oberlander, chairman of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's championships committee.

"I think I'm running a hospital."

This 86th championship has been hit by a rash of injuries. The latest to withdraw were Tony Roche of Australia, seeded third, and Tory Ann Fretz of Los Angeles, unseeded but ranked fourth nationally.

They merely followed others who departed earlier — ex-champ Maria Bueno of Brazil, Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Luis Garcia of Mexico and John Cooper of Australia among them.

And while Roche, who stated he first had trouble with the shoulder in Newport, Wales, following Wimbledon, and awakened Friday morning in pain, withdrew when an injection failed to help him, there also was apprehension the tournament could lose Wimbledon champ John Newcombe.

Newcombe had a pinched nerve in his right leg, and admitted he couldn't move well in his four-set victory over young Mike Estep of Dallas, 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Other matches today send second-seeded Emerson, winner in 1961 and 1964, against Jim Osborne of Honolulu, while Seixas, of Philadelphia, a former U.S. Davis Cup captain, will play Ronnie Barnes of Brazil.

Understudy Bratkowski Gets Call

Starr Won't Start Game Against Browns Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vince Lombardi will start Zeke Bratkowski against the Cleveland Browns tonight in the second game of a National Football League doubleheader.

"I'm not ruling out Bart (Starr) completely but Zeke will start," said Lombardi, coach of the world champion Green Bay Packers. "Starr has bruised ribs but it's nothing serious."

Minnesota will face Atlanta in the first game before an expected standing room crowd of 83,000 at Municipal Stadium. The Browns-Packers game will be televised nationally.

All reserve seats have been sold for the doubleheader, the sixth since Art Modell took over as Browns' owner in 1961. Modell faced skepticism from various directions when he started the twin bill in 1962, but it has been an overwhelming success.

Lombardi said Elijah Pitts and Jim Grabowski will be the running backs, but added, "I plan to use five or six before the night is over."

Green Bay has a 4-0 exhibition record while Cleveland is 0-4. The records prompted a word of caution Friday from Packers' scout Wally Cruice.

He said the Browns "have not taken the preseason games as seriously as some of the others, but now they will be showing up at home for the first time and they'll want to make a good showing."

Sikes Leads Carling Play By One Stroke

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (AP) — The expansive and undulating greens gave touring golf professionals a roller-coaster ride Friday in the opening round of the $200,000 Carling World Championship at the Toronto Board of Trade Country Club.

Only 17 of the 141 players who play today in the second round of the 72-hole tournament have scores of par or better to build upon.

R. H. "Dick" Sikes, a 27-year-old Cleveland 6-footer, who only last week got his putting game under control, took a one-stroke lead over Gary Player of South Africa and veteran Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., as he fired a three-under 68 on the 7,024-yard, par 36-35—71 layout.

Sikes, who made the most of putting tips from fellow professionals Bert Yancey and Dick Crawford, was the only man to cover the treacherous course without slipping over par on a single hole.

It was the second straight round the slim Ohioan has shot without slipping over par on a hole.

The rest of the field found their scores rising with almost every dip of the greens. By the end of the first round, which saw eight players withdraw and two more disqualified for card-signing infractions, golfers were labelling the layout a thinking man's course and the greens pure murder.

Besides the top trio, only Randy Glover of Sandford, N.C., Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and Tony Jacklin of London, England, managed to beat par.

Sikes canned putts from 15 and 25 feet to save pars on the first two holes and got birdies on the sixth, 10th and 16th from 12, 25 and 35 feet.

Victory here worth $35,000 would double his 1967 earnings.

Glenmoor Boosters To Meet Wednesday

Due to an important business meeting at Beaver Local High School, the Glenmoor Rams Little League Boosters Club will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Donna Ketchum instead of Tuesday.

Southern Has Young Look

Southern Local coach Raymond (Beau) Bell was 3-6-1 in his debut there last year and is grim about this season.

Only seven of 19 lettermen return, and he is not planning to use all of these, off their performances so far. "This will be a rebuilding year", he says, "and I might as well go with the younger players if the older players won't put out. Our problem is to get the kids to hit", he adds.

A tentative starting lineup shows five or six sophomores. These include tackles John Orr and Eddie Winters, halfbacks Butch Dangelo and Gary Cox and end Frank Francis, son of Rio Grande basketball star "Bevo" Francis. Bob Briceland is battling senior Tim Wood for the center slot.

Dennis McElroy, the other end, is the only senior sure of a starting job at this point. Guards Jim Ewing and Ron Malone, quarterback Dan Buckel and fullback Richard Rose are juniors. McElroy, Ewing and Rose are lettermen. Ralph Nedelkoff, another junior, is currently out with a pulled leg muscle, but is expected to battle Buckel for the quarterback job when he returns.

Bell says his attack will probably stick to the ground, but they may pass more than usual if one of the quarterbacks work out. He says quarterback is a weak position at this point. The basic offensive formation is the split or wing T with flankers.

The defense will operate out of a 6-2. Letterman Jim Pierson, a senior, is getting a battle from sophomore George Thompson for the safety post. Cox and Rose will be the halfbacks, McElroy and Francis the ends, Orr and Winters the tackles and Ewing and Stanley Felton, a junior, the linebackers.

Southern competes in the Buckeye Border Conference, and Bell says all teams will be tough, with Beaver Local possibly the best of the bunch.

The complete schedule:

Sept. 8 — Lisbon
Sept. — Springfield Local*
Sept. 22 — at Stanton Local
Oct. 6 — Greenford
Oct. 13 — Crestview
Oct. 20 — at Jefferson Union*
Oct. 28 — at Beaver Local*
Nov. 4 — at United
Nov. 10 — Toronto*

*Buckeye Border Conference games.

Grier Suffers Injury; May Be Out For Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran Roosevelt Grier, a member of the Los Angeles Rams' defensive front four, suffered a badly torn right leg Achilles tendon in the inter-league exhibition football game with Kansas City Friday night. The 287-pound tackle was expected to be lost to the NFL team for at least two months and possibly the season.

Grier was to undergo surgery this morning. The injury occurred just before the half ended. Los Angeles won 44-24.

The lower Mississippi River area has a lady ghost named Razzmatazz, according to some. The story goes that Razzmatazz set fire to her man, Brickbat Charlie, and floated him downriver in a canoe. She is seen when she slips into jails for a rest.

"Colorado" is a Spanish word meaning "ruddy;" the name comes from the Colorado River which runs red during the spring floods.

Dickson Tops Amateurs By Three Strokes

By FRANK PITMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The sun smiled broadly, dispositions and scores improved but that was the only difference as Army Private Bob Dickson continued his dominance through the second round of the 67th U.S. Amateur Golf Championships.

The sweet-swinging former Oklahoma State star and present British Amateur titleholder stroked his second 71 Friday over the 6,946 yard par 35-35—70 Broadmoor West course for 142 and a three-stroke lead going into today's final two 18-hole rounds.

Their final holes are programmed for national television (ABC, 6:30 p.m., EDT).

Both beamed confidently after Friday's round. Dickson, on a week's pass from Army duties in Arizona, said he felt he could protect his lead through the closing grind.

"I'm young (23) strong and in good physical condition," he said. "I think that's to my advantage."

Giles, 24-year-old law student at University of Georgia, countered, "If I hit the ball as good as I did in the second round, my chances are pretty good."

Defending champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., was grouped at 147 with long-hitting Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., and Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla. They were a stroke back of third-placer Doug Olson, a Medford, Ore., star on University of Houston's perennial NCAA golf champions. He had identical rounds of 73 for 146.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers play their first American Football League team tonight, meeting the San Diego Chargers, who have lost twice to National League clubs.

San Diego has lost to Detroit 38-17 and Los Angeles 50-7 in games with NFL teams. The Steelers are 1-2 in exhibition play.

Company Honors Lengthy Service Of Leo Lawrence

Leo C. Lawrence of Midway Ln. was honored Friday noon with a luncheon at the Inn Town Motel on completion of 35 years' service with the local office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

An office account representative, Lawrence was praised by John Misitigh, manager, for his long service and "his unswerving devotion to his duties and his participation in many civic activities that have earned him a spot in the heart of the community." He pointed out Lawrence is one of the top agents in Metropolitan district office and a member of its Honor Club.

Lawrence joined the company Sept. 5, 1932, following in the footsteps of his father, Earl Lawrence, who also was a Metropolitan agent. He and his father have combined service totaling 73 years.

Twenty attended, including present and retired members of the staff. Lawrence was presented with a gift. A former member of the Board of Education, Lawrence is a widely-known amateur horticulturist.

Black Box Will Aid Helicopters In Viet

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP) — A Roswell electronics firm is coming up with a black box to foil black-clad Viet Cong bringing down U.S. helicopters in Vietnam.

Bill Underhill, president of Electronics Industries, said the device would be placed in helicopter cockpits to pick up sounds of enemy bullets, fired within 50 yards.

The detector would indicate the sounds of fire on the helicopter's control panel and cause a beeping noise in the pilot's headset. He said noise level in helicopters is so high that sometimes the pilot doesn't hear the shots aimed at him.

The Army is to begin tests of the device in Vietnam soon, Underhill said Thursday.

Contract Is Let On Expressway

The Pennsylvania Highways Department at Harrisburg has announced award of the $6,108,-294 contract for the Beaver Valley Expressway in Allegheny and Beaver counties to Frank Mashuda Co., Inc. of Evans City.

The improvement is part of the department's accelerated road building program under the direction of Highways Secretary Robert G. Bartlett to provide Pennsylvania with a "Highway System of Excellence," proposed by Gov. Shafer when he assumed office.

The 3.45-mile improvement consists of divided highway with interchange ramps and side roads in Moon and Hopewell Townships, located between the Greater Pittsburgh Airport and Aliquippa. Bids were opened June 30.

Date for the start of construction will be set at a pre-construction meeting within the next several weeks by the Pittsburgh District Office of the State Highways Department with the contractor.

Completion of the project is anticipated during 1969.

Car And Rig Involved In East End Collision

An Allegheny County (Pa.) trucker told police Friday his tractor - trailer rig was undamaged in a collision with an auto on Pennsylvania Ave. at Park Way in East End.

Gene R. Lance, 32, of Clinton RD 1 told Patrolman Jerry F. Adkins the rig, owned by Robert C. Butterfield of Georgetown RD 1, was struck from the rear by an unidentified car while halted for a traffic light at the intersection. Lance called police, but the other driver left the scene because his vehicle was the only one which suffered damage, the trucker said.

First Negro In Post

Marshall Takes Oath As Justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The grandson of a slave has been sworn into office as the nation's first Negro justice of the Supreme Court.

Thurgood Marshall, son of a sleeping car porter and a long-time battler for equal rights for Negroes, took the "constitutional" oath of office in a quiet, private ceremony Friday.

Officiating at the swearing-in was Justice Hugo L. Black, at 81 the court's oldest member. During the oath-taking he directed Marshall's attention to a section in a Gideon Bible that read: "And so abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."

Black, a former two-term U.S. Senator from Alabama who has served on the court 30 years, once belonged to the Klan. Later, as a lawmaker and justice, he became a staunch defender of civil liberties.

Marshall, 59, said after the ceremony he'll begin work next Tuesday. By taking the oath to support and defend the U.S. Constitution, he is empowered to perform all judicial duties except decide cases.

He is expected to take a public or "judicial" oath—in which he must swear to administer justice to all—when the court reconvenes for its new term Oct. 2.

The ceremony in Black's office was witnessed by Mrs. Marshall, the Marshall sons, Thurgood Jr., 11, and John William, 9, Justice William J. Brennan Jr., Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, Mrs. Black and T. Perry Lippitt, the court's marshal.

It was to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Clark's father, former Justice Tom Clark, that President Johnson appointed Marshall to the high court bench June 13.

And as U.S. solicitor general, Marshall served briefly under Ramsey Clark, appointed attorney general earlier this year.

Mrs. Marshall described the oath-taking as thrilling and acknowledged she still has "butterflies in my stomach" from Wednesday's Senate confirmation of Marshall by a 69-11 margin.

Marshall served as a federal judge, appointed by the late President John F. Kennedy, before being named solicitor general. Prior to that he served for many years as chief legal counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in which capacity he won 29 of 32 civil rights cases before the Supreme Court.

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fenway Park has opened its arms again to Ken Harrelson and the Boston Red Sox. Minnesota's Municipal Stadium has turned a cold shoulder on Ed Mathews and the Detroit Tigers.

Harrelson and Mathews, prize late-season pick-ups for the Red Sox and Tigers, respectively, found themselves in the thick of the American League pennant scramble Friday night - with different results.

Harrelson, signed by Boston last week after being dropped by Kansas City, drove in four runs with a homer, triple and double as the Red Sox emerged from a hitting slump, pounded Chicago 10-2 and clung to first place.

Mathews, acquired by Detroit in an inter-league trade with Houston last month, committed two first-inning errors as the Tigers fumbled away a 5-4 decision to the second place Twins at Minsesota.

The Red Sox still lead the Twins by one half-game while third place Detroit is two games behind and the fourth-place White Sox trail by 2½.

California rallied for two runs in the ninth inning and a 4-3 triumph over Cleveland, the New York Yankees edged Washington 2-1 in 12 innings on Mike Hegan's first major league homer and Baltimore shaded Kansas City 2-1 in other AL games.

In the National League, San Francisco outlasted Cincinnati 1-0 in 21 innings, St. Louis banked Houston 5-0, Pittsburgh shut out Philadelphia 3-0, Los Angeles topped Atlanta 6-4 and New York divided a doubleheader with Chicago, the Mets taking the nightcap 3-0 after the Cubs won the opener 8-2.

"I always did like to hit in this park," Harrelson said after leading Boston's 13-hit assault with a two-run triple in the first inning, a bases-empty homer in the fifth and a run-producing double in the seventh.

"I drove in five runs in one game a couple of years ago, and I had a cuple of good days here with the Athletics earlier this season."

The Red Sox, who had managed just two hits in Thursday night's 4-2 loss to Chicago, battered White Sox' ace Gary Peters for seven runs in the first two innings and breezed the rest of the way behind the strong pitching of Jose Santiago.

Mathews, who has driven in eight runs in 13 games with the Tigers, made a two-base throwing error on Harmon Killebrew's grounder in the first inning at Minnesota, then slipped on the slick infield after fielding Cesar Tovar's bouncer and was unable to make the play.

Each of his errors sent runs across the plate and two more Detroit miscues in the third gave the Twins another unearned tally.

Southpaw Jim Kaat, staked to an early 5-2 lead, withstood Bill Freehan's ninth insing homer and boosted his season record to 10-13.

Trailing 3-2 in the ninth, the Angels pushed over the tying run against Sam McDowell on a walk and singles by Bob Taylor and Bobby Knoop. After another walk filled the bases, first baseman Tony Horton booted Jimmie Hall's two-out grounder as the winning run crossed the plate.

Curt Blefary lashed a run-scoring single in the ninth inning to lift the Orioles past Kansas City. Pete Richert blanked the A's after the first inning, when they scored without benefit of a hit.

South Side Has 15 Lettermen Back Should Improve 2-6-1 Mark Of '66

Charlton, who was a junior high coach at East Liverpool last year while George Zanic handled the varsity, has 15 lettermen and misses only three starters.

Peden, 6-2, 185, is the most powerful runner on the team. Doak can pass well, says Charlton, and the team will try to balance running and passing. He calls his offense multiple, running all variations of the T.

South Side will employ a 6-2 defense. Some lettermen defensive stalwarts are Bruce Dunlevy and Roger McCarrell at linebackers and Ray Swearingen at halfback. Also slated to see action on defense are Rick Stevens, a junior tackle, and Greg Trimble at end. Other lettermen are Ed Reed and Jason Allison.

The Rams compete in Class B of the WPIAL, and Charlton tabs Avella as one of the top Class B teams. He looks for Avalon to be one of the big hurdles on his class B schedule, and figures Western Beaver and Center Twp. to be tough because of the traditional rivalries between these schools and South Side. The Rams open with Class A Donora, which also promises to be a stern test.

The complete schedule:
Sept. 9—Donora
Sept. 16—at Avalon
Sept. 23—Edgewood
Sept. 30—at Sharpsburg
Oct. 7—Millvale
Oct. 14—Oakdale Boys Home
Oct. 21—at Avonworth
Oct. 28—Western Beaver at Midland (night)
Nov. 4—Center Twp.

Giants Nip Reds In 21 Innings

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gaylord Perry's scoreless-inning streak is longer than Cincinnati's, but no one can say the Reds didn't make a try for it.

The record books got a good thumbing through Friday night — make that Saturday morning — as scoreless inning piled on scoreless inning before San Francisco mercifully got a bases-loaded walk in the 21st frame from Bob Lee and won 1-0.

Perry went the first 16 innings for the Giants, leaving for a pinch hitter in the 17th. He gave up 10 hits and struck out 12. Perry hasn't allowed a run in 29 innings and the night's work lowered his earned-run average from 3.17 to 2.96.

The end finally came when, with one out in the 21st, Jim Hart singled, Ollie Brown doubled, Hal Lanier was walked intentionally and Dick Groat was walked unintentionally, forcing in Hart.

The game will go into the record books under the following classifications:

Longest night game in National League history.

Most time consumed by a National League night game, 5 hours and 40 minutes.

Longest 1-0 game.

Tie for the most innings played without a run. The Boston Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates played 20 scoreless innings in 1918 before Pittsburgh won 2-0.

In other National League action Friday, St. Louis blanked Houston 5-0, Pittsburgh shut out Philadelphia 3-0, Los Angeles beat Atlanta 6-4 and Chicago split a doubleheader with New York 8-2 and 0-3.

In the American League, Boston bombed Chicago 10-2, Baltimore nipped Kansas City 2-1, New York edged Washington 2-1 in 12 innings, Minnesota outlasted Detroit 5-4 and California beat Cleveland 4-3.

Mel Queen went the first 9 1-3 innings for Cincinnati and both clubs had plenty of scoring chances. The Giants finished with 15 hits and the Reds with 12.

Nelson Briles gave up eight hits, but kept the Astros from scoring while Lou Brock belted a homer and Tim McCarver drove in a pair of runs for the league-leading Cardinals. Bruce Von Hoff, 0-2, was the loser.

Woody Fryman struck out 15 Phillie batters and gave up just three hits in winning his third game of the season against seven defeats. He missed Bob Veale's Pirate strikeout record by one. Matty Alou and Bill Mazeroski drove in runs.

The Dodgers got homers from Bob Bailey, Willie Davis and Al Ferrara to win their fifth game in six starts. Ferrara's shot in the fifth inning broke a 4-4 tie. Joe Torre hit his 19th homer and drove in two runs for the Braves.

Ferguson Jenkins and Don Cardwell took turns with pitching gems, Jenkins winning his 17th game in the first Cub-Met game and Cardwell setting Chicago down on five hits and 11 strikeouts in the nightcap.

Injuries Mark Opening Round In U.S. Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — This is the day Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., begins a quest to become the first American to win a U.S. tennis championship since Darlene Hard was successful in 1961.

It is also the day a couple of former men's title holders, Roy Emerson of Australia and 44-year-old Vic Seixas, continue their bid in second round matches and it is also the day the harried committee hopes the injury jinx will end.

"I don't think I'm running a tournament," quipped Ernest Oberlander, chairman of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's championships committee.

"I think I'm running a hospital."

This 86th championship has been hit by a rash of injuries. The latest to withdraw were Tony Roche of Australia, seeded third, and Tory Ann Fretz of Los Angeles, unseeded but ranked fourth nationally.

They merely followed others who departed earlier — ex-champ Maria Bueno of Brazil, Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Luis Garcia of Mexico and John Cooper of Australia among them.

And while Roche, who stated he first had trouble with the shoulder in Newport, Wales, following Wimbledon, and awakened Friday morning in pain, withdrew when an injection failed to help him, there also was apprehension the tournament could lose Wimbledon champ John Newcombe.

Newcombe had a pinched nerve in his right leg, and admitted he couldn't move well in his four-set victory over young Mike Estep of Dallas, 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Mrs. King, winner at Wimbledon the last two years, and runner-up here two years ago, starts in the second round against Becky Vest of Jackson, Miss.

Other matches today send second-seeded Emerson, winner in 1961 and 1964, against Jim Osborne of Honolulu, while Seixas, of Philadelphia, a former U.S. Davis Cup captain, will play Ronnie Barnes of Brazil.

Understudy Bratkowski Gets Call

Starr Won't Start Game Against Browns Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vince Lombardi will start Zeke Bratkowski against the Cleveland Browns tonight in the second game of a National Football League doubleheader.

"I'm not ruling out Bart (Starr) completely but Zeke will start," said Lombardi, coach of the world champion Green Bay Packers. "Starr has bruised ribs but it's nothing serious."

Minnesota will face Atlanta in the first game before an expected standing room crowd of 83,000 at Municipal Stadium. The Browns-Packers game will be televised nationally.

All reserve seats have been sold for the doubleheader, the sixth since Art Modell took over as Browns' owner in 1961. Modell faced skepticism from various directions when he started the twin bill in 1962, but it has been an overwhelming success.

Lombardi said Elijah Pitts and Jim Grabowski will be the running backs, but added, "I plan to use five or six before the night is over."

Green Bay has a 4-0 exhibition record while Cleveland is 0-4. The records prompted a word of caution Friday from Packers' scout Wally Cruice.

He said the Browns "have not taken the preseason games as seriously as some of the others, but now they will be showing up at home for the first time and they'll want to make a good showing."

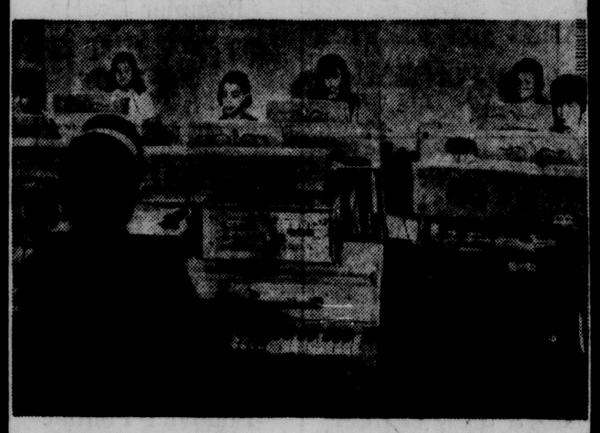
Motivation Beyond Belief with The NEW Group Concept



The Pilot Speaks, "Cadets, Fasten Your Earphones" . . . and Youngsters Zoom Into Action on Their Electronic Pianos

With teacher as their "pilot," youngsters listen intently and respond with amazing enthusiasm on their electronic pianos. They not only learn piano—they learn the fundamentals of MUSIC!

New, Modern Accelerated Method

New dynamics of "group teaching" have made the learning of music more of an adventure than ever before. With the new, accelerated method, youngsters learn the theory and structure of music — subjects normally reserved for college level instruction. They begin sight reading, improvising melodies, learning to play in any key, even composing . . . and from the very beginning.

Advantages of the NEW Group Concept

The NEW group concept is teaching piano through the science of electronics . . . the Wurlitzer Music Laboratory. Youngsters are fascinated by the Electronic Pianos . . . the Earphones . . . the Electronic Communication Center. Now, youngsters can learn music with the new, accelerated group method . . . AND ALSO ENJOY THE BENEFITS OF INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION. The teacher communicates verbally and musically with individuals or groups through earphones. As teacher finds it desirable, students meet friendly competition . . . or receive individual instruction without embarrassment. It's the modern way to make piano instruction truly an adventure in music.

Educator Approved

The Wurlitzer Music Laboratory concept for teaching music is used successfully in hundreds of colleges and schools to teach the teachers of tomorrow.

Children are Fascinated

Desire for group approval and pride of accomplishment encourage the development of perseverance and concentration. Enthusiasm and excitement run high — youngsters walk and clap rhythms, write musical passages on the blackboard, create phrases on the spot, learn to listen with a critic's ear. It's heartwarming to hear these young people perform!

REGISTER NOW
FOR CLASSES BEGINNING SOON

See for yourself the enthusiasm of the youngsters . . . the way they concentrate . . . the way they learn MUSIC!

YOUR CHILD WILL ENJOY IT

Sikes Leads Carling Play By One Stroke

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (AP) — The expansive and undulating greens gave touring golf professionals a roller-coaster ride Friday in the opening round of the $200,000 Carling World Championship at the Toronto Board of Trade Country Club.

Only 17 of the 141 players who play today in the second round of the 72-hole tournament have scores of par or better to build upon.

R. H. "Dick" Sikes, a 27-year-old Cleveland 6-footer, who only last week got his putting game under control, took a one-stroke lead over Gary Player of South Africa and veteran Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., as he fired a three-under 68 on the 7,024-yard, par 36-35—71 layout.

Sikes, who made the most of putting tips from fellow professionals Bert Yancey and Dick Crawford, was the only man to cover the treacherous course without slipping over par on a single hole.

It was the second straight round the slim Ohioan has shot without slipping over par on a hole.

The rest of the field found their scores rising with almost every dip of the greens. By the end of the first round, which saw eight players withdraw and two more disqualified for card-signing infractions, golfers were labelling the layout a thinking man's course and the greens pure murder.

Besides the top trio, only Randy Glover of Sandford, N.C., Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and Tony Jacklin of London, England, managed to beat par.

Sikes canned putts from 15 and 25 feet to save pars on the first two holes and got birdies on the sixth, 10th and 16th from 12, 25 and 35 feet.

Victory here worth $35,000 would double his 1967 earnings.

Glenmoor Boosters To Meet Wednesday

Due to an important business meeting at Beaver Local High School, the Glenmoor Rams Little League Boosters Club will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Donna Ketchum instead of Tuesday.

Southern Has Young Look

Southern Local coach Raymond (Beau) Bell was 3-6-1 in his debut there last year and is grim about this season.

Only seven of 19 lettermen return, and he is not planning to use all of these, off their performances so far. "This will be a rebuilding year", he says, "and I might as well go with the younger players if the older players won't put out. Our problem is to get the kids to hit", he adds.

A tentative starting lineup shows five or six sophomores. These include tackles John Orr and Eddie Winters, halfbacks Butch Dangelo and Gary Cox and end Frank Francis, son of Rio Grande basketball star "Bevo" Francis. Bob Briceland is battling senior Tim Wood for the center slot.

Dennis McElroy, the other end, is the only senior sure of a starting job at this point. Guards Jim Ewing and Ron Malone, quarterback Dan Buckel and fullback Richard Rose are juniors. McElroy, Ewing and Rose are lettermen. Ralph Nedelkoff, another junior, is currently out with a pulled leg muscle, but is expected to battle Buckel for the quarterback job when he returns.

Bell says his attack will probably stick to the ground, but they may pass more than usual if one of the quarterbacks work out. He says quarterback is a weak position at this point. The basic offensive formation is the split or wing T with flankers.

The defense will operate out of a 6-2. Letterman Jim Pierson, a senior, is getting a battle from sophomore George Thompson for the safety post. Cox and Rose will be the halfbacks, McElroy and Francis the ends, Orr and Winters the tackles and Ewing and Stanley Felton, a junior, the linebackers.

Southern competes in the Buckeye Border Conference, and Bell says all teams will be tough, with Beaver Local possibly the best of the bunch.

The complete schedule:

Sept. 8 — Lisbon
Sept. — Springfield Local*
Sept. 22 — at Stanton Local
Oct. 6 — Greenford
Oct. 13 — Crestview
Oct. 20 — at Jefferson Union*
Oct. 28 — at Beaver Local*
Nov. 4 — at United
Nov. 10 — Toronto*

*Buckeye Border Conference games.

Grier Suffers Injury; May Be Out For Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran Roosevelt Grier, a member of the Los Angeles Rams' defensive front four, suffered a badly torn right leg Achilles tendon in the inter-league exhibition football game with Kansas City Friday night. The 287-pound tackle was expected to be lost to the NFL team for at least two months and possibly the season.

Grier was to undergo surgery this morning. The injury occurred just before the half ended. Los Angeles won 44-24.

The lower Mississippi River area has a lady ghost named Razzmatazz, according to some. The story goes that Razzmatazz set fire to her man, Brickbat Charlie, and floated him downriver in a canoe. She is seen when she slips into jails for a rest.

"Colorado" is a Spanish word meaning "ruddy;" the name comes from the Colorado River which runs red during the spring floods.

Dickson Tops Amateurs By Three Strokes

By FRANK PITMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The sun smiled broadly, dispositions and scores improved but that was the only difference as Army Private Bob Dickson continued his dominance through the second round of the 67th U.S. Amateur Golf Championships.

The sweet-swinging former Oklahoma State star and present British Amateur titleholder stroked his second 71 Friday over the 6,946 yard par 35-35—70 Broadmoor West course for 142 and a three-stroke lead going into today's final two 18-hole rounds.

Their final holes are programmed for national television (ABC, 6:30 p.m., EDT).

Both beamed confidently after Friday's round. Dickson, on a week's pass from Army duties in Arizona, said he felt he could protect his lead through the closing grind.

"I'm young (23) strong and in good physical condition," he said. "I think that's to my advantage."

Giles, 24-year-old law student at University of Georgia, countered, "If I hit the ball as good as I did in the second round, my chances are pretty good."

Defending champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., was grouped at 147 with long-hitting Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., and Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla. They were a stroke back of third-placer Doug Olson, a Medford, Ore., star on University of Houston's perennial NCAA golf champions. He had identical rounds of 73 for 146.

Steelers Set To Meet AFL Foe Tonight

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers play their first American Football League team tonight, meeting the San Diego Chargers, who have lost twice to National League clubs.

Pittsburgh will be closer to full strength than it has been in some time. Defensive back Marv Woodson, split end J.R. Wilburn and tight end Tony Jeter have returned from two weeks of National Guard duty, and halfbacks Jim Butler and Don Shy have recovered from injuries.

Quarterback Bill Nelsen will make his first appearance as a pro in his home area despite the death Friday of his father-in-law.

San Diego has lost to Detroit 38-17 and Los Angeles 50-7 in games with NFL teams. The Steelers are 1-2 in exhibition play.

Junior Editors Quiz on TALLADEGA FOREST

QUESTION: Where is Talladega Forest and what is it like?

ANSWER: It's in Alabama, where the people say, "Keep weeds and fire out of your forest and it will grow up in spite of you." This saying suggests the reason why the forests of this state are so important, for trees grow there almost like weeds. The speed with which an abandoned cotton field will turn into a thrifty forest of young pines is remarkable. Many of Alabama's trees have commercial value, such as the pine, oak and red cedar used for paper and wood pulp. Turpentine, tar, pitch and resin come from Alabama's forests. Forest products rank fourth among the state's poducts. But the value of a forest is not only in immediate cash. Our nation's National Forest system was set up to preserve forests for their value in controlling water and preventing floods, in order to preserve wild life and to act as recreation areas for the people. The Talladega National Forest area lies near to the city of Talladega and comprises 357,725 acres. There are many scenic drives through the Forest. There is much wild game for hunting and fishing. The various water areas give joy to those who love boating and swimming.

CELLI MUSIC PRESENTS

Motivation Beyond Belief with The NEW Group Concept

With teacher as their "pilot," youngsters listen intently and respond with amazing enthusiasm on their electronic pianos. They not only learn piano—they learn the fundamentals of MUSIC!

New, Modern Accelerated Method

New dynamics of "group teaching" have made the learning of music more of an adventure than ever before. With the new, accelerated method, youngsters learn the theory and structure of music — subjects normally reserved for college level instruction. They begin sight reading, improvising melodies, learning to play in any key, even composing . . . and from the very beginning.

Advantages of the NEW Group Concept

The NEW group concept is teaching piano through the science of electronics . . . the Wurlitzer Music Laboratory. Youngsters are fascinated by the Electronic Pianos . . . the Earphones . . . the Electronic Communication Center. Now, youngsters can learn music with the new, accelerated group method . . . AND ALSO ENJOY THE BENEFITS OF INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION. The teacher communicates verbally and musically with individuals or groups through earphones. As teacher finds it desirable, students meet friendly competition . . . or receive individual instruction without embarrassment. It's the modern way to make piano instruction truly an adventure in music.

Educator Approved

The Wurlitzer Music Laboratory concept for teaching music is used successfully in hundreds of colleges and schools to teach the teachers of tomorrow.

Children are Fascinated

Desire for group approval and pride of accomplishment encourage the development of perseverance and concentration. Enthusiasm and excitement run high — youngsters walk and clap rhythms, write musical passages on the blackboard, create phrases on the spot, learn to listen with a critic's ear. It's heartwarming to hear these young people perform!

REGISTER NOW
FOR CLASSES BEGINNING SOON

See for yourself the enthusiasm of the youngsters . . . the way they concentrate . . . the way they learn MUSIC!

YOUR CHILD WILL ENJOY IT

Classes are scheduled by semesters and beginner classes start soon. The fee is nominal, including lesson materials, payable monthly if you desire. Auditions are currently beng conducted for the next semester scheduled to start soon. To enroll your child, phone 385-1622.

Lions Club Hears Talk By Head Of Kent Unit

Urchek expressed gratification on a previous visit here to find a positive attitude toward the center throughout the community and urged the continued support of residents and civic groups.

He served on the administrative staff at Kent for 17 years and also was an assistant professor of business administration more recently.

The university can help a student develop not only academically, but also in a personality sense, he pointed out.

He explained he tries to instill enthusiasm in his students when he first meets them and attempts to assist them in solving problems.

Urchek has been director of the center one month, succeeding John G. Hedrick, now at Akron State University.

Upon questioning, Urchek said he believes the next few years will see the university expanding its program here.

The club's board of directors will meet Sept. 11 at the Potters Savings and Loan Co. Annex.

Austen Moore will be next week's program chairman. James Sigler was in charge yesterday.

Twenty - one attended. Charles Haugh is president.

W. Va. Town Buys Itself

ELEANOR, W. Va. (AP) This 1,200 population Putnam County town, which has been operating on a $1,000 budget for five years, bought itself Friday night.

Since 1946 Eleanor has been in the hands of a group of private residents called the Washington Homesteads. Until Friday, that is, when the municipal government under Mayor Carol Hartley finally acquired all the publicly used property and utilities.

Eleanor was constructed as a "model home" of the depression and was federally subsidized for a while. After the federal government deeded the town over to the association there was no regular source of income.

William Walters, president of Washington Homesteads, said the reason the property and utilities were sold was to provide the town with some operating income as the association had no taxing powers.

Odds Are Against U.N. Viet Action

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The odds are against the U.S, senators who want the U.N. Security Council to deal with the war in Vietnam. The U.S. government has tried that.

The council discussed the war in 1964, but North Vietnam shunned the debate and nothing further happened. In 1966 a U.S. resolution for a new Geneva conference was shelved for fear of a Soviet or French veto.

One reason it's hard to accomplish anything here to stop the fighting: none of the Vietnamese regimes or groups participating is a member of the United Nations although South Vietnam has the status of observer.

Since North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front or Viet Cong are outside the United Nations, they insist that the war be settled outside. Red China, which helps arm Hanoi, also is not a member.

The Soviet Union and France insist that any settlement be reached "within the framework of the Geneva accords" of 1954 and 1962. They contend that the United Nations lacks even the right to consider the subject.

THE GENEVA conferences that produced those accords included North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, France, Red China, the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain in 1954, when the agenda was for all of French Indochina, and those nine plus Burma, Thailand, India, Canada and Poland in 1962, when it was limited to Laos.

The 1954 conference ended the war between France and the Vietminh. It left Communists governing North Vietnam and anti-Communists governing South Vietnam on the understanding that elections to unify the country would be held within two years.

South Vietnam, with U.S. backing, refused to discuss election arrangements with North Vietnam. War broke out again, between the Viet Cong and South Vietnam. North Vietnam and the United States became increasingly involved. In August 1964 the United States reported that North Vietnamese motor torpedo boats attacked American warships in the Gulf of Tonkin and that U.S. planes hit back at the boats and their shore bases. It asked for an urgent meeting of the Security Council "to consider the situation" created by the attacks.

The U.S. complaint seemed aimed at heading off any complaint from the other side. When the council put the question on the agenda, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson gave the American version and said, "Our mission in Southeast Asia is peace." He made no proposal.

The Soviet Union introduced a resolution to invite North Vietnam to the debate. The United States replied that South Vietnam should be invited, too. The council agreed to invite both.

Later events showed that the Soviet Union had acted without knowing the North Vietnamese position. Hanoi's brusque reply was that the council "has no right to examine this problem."

The council held no more meetings on the issue.

Later, the United States

LATER EVENTS showed that the Soviet Union had acted without knowing the North Vietnamese position. Hanoi's brusque reply was that the council "has no right to examine this problem."

Against that background, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and 12 other senators, four of them Republicans, said Monday that Vietnam should be put before the council again.

Next day a U.N. spokesman said Secretary-General U. Thant still held to his well-known view — that the council can do nothing because some of the principal parties to the war are not in the United Nations.

Burglars Put 'Bite' On California Dentist

Final Reading Slated Oct. 16 On Food Establishment Plan

LISBON — A proposed food establishment regulation covering the Columbiana County General Health District will be given second reading by the County Board of Health Sept. 18. Third reading and the vote on adoption is scheduled Oct. 16.

Dr. M. K. Singer, county health commissioner, said the proposed measure should not be confused with the food service regulation applying to restaurants and cafeterias. The latter has been in effect since 1955 when the Ohio Health Department made it mandatory.

"Food establishment" means any place — temporary or permanent, stationary or mobile, or whether considered public, semi-public or private — where food or drink is prepared, processed, manufactured, packaged, stored, served, sold or offered for sale, Dr. Singer said. He mentioned groceries, delicatessens, confectioneries, bakeries and meat markets as examples.

Dr. Singer said the food establishment regulation has been under consideration by the county board for more than a year. A state health officer surveyed the county last February and declared a need for a food establishment inspection program.

County Sanitarians Harry Stockdale and Dale Wellington annually inspect some 200 restaurants in the General Health District. They estimate there are less than 200 food establishments.

Dr. Singer said the two sanitarians will be able to handle food establishment inspections to begin with, but a third sanitarian will be needed as the work load increases. Annual permit fees should finance the program, he said. The fee schedule follows:

Retail food establishments up to 1,500 square feet of floor area, $5; 1,500 to 3,000 square feet, $10; over 3,000 to 4,000 square feet, $15; over 4,000 square feet, $20; wholesale food establishments, $25.

Combined Trash Collection Slated

Because of the Labor Day holiday Monday, the incinerator department will combine the trash routes usually serviced on Monday and Tuesday for a joint collection on Tuesday, Supt. John Melvin said today.

The combined collection will cover these streets: Smithfield St., Orchard Grove Ave., Princeton Ave., Columbia Ave., Oliver St., Fairmont St., Highland Colony, Gardendale, Maplewood to the city limits, Park Blvd., Beechwood, Armstrong Ln., Mayberry Ln., Hill Blvd., Manor Ln., Midway Ln., Cain St., St. Clair Ave.

Fairview St., Division St., Hague Ave., Shadyside Ave., Church St., Denver St., Edwards Ave., Park Pl., Jethro, W. 8th St., Ridgeway Ave., Fenton St., Moore St., Claiborne St., May St., Florence St., John St., Burford St., Alton St. and California Hollow.

Jamaicans Will Help Pick Apples In W. Va.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Labor has certified the need for 336 foreign farm workers to harvest the apple crop in West Virginia this fall.

The laborers will be recruited in Jamaica by the Department of Labor, a department spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman said the workers will average about $1.65 an hour and they will be given free transportation and lodging.

North America's first student exchange program began in 1610 when Etienne Brule went to live with Huron Indians. His commander, the explorer Champlain, reciprocated by taking a young Huron to France.

Junior Editors Quiz on TALLADEGA FOREST

QUESTION: Where is Talladega Forest and what is it like?

ANSWER: It's in Alabama, where the people say, "Keep weeds and fire out of your forest and it will grow up in spite of you." This saying suggests the reason why the forests of this state are so important, for trees grow there almost like weeds. The speed with which an abandoned cotton field will turn into a thrifty forest of young pines is remarkable. Many of Alabama's trees have commercial value, such as the pine, oak and red cedar used for paper and wood pulp. Turpentine, tar, pitch and resin come from Alabama's forests. Forest products rank fourth among the state's poducts. But the value of a forest is not only in immediate cash. Our nation's National Forest system was set up to preserve forests for their value in controlling water and preventing floods, in order to preserve wild life and to act as recreation areas for the people. The Talladega National Forest area lies near to the city of Talladega and comprises 357,725 acres. There are many scenic drives through the Forest. There is much wild game for hunting and fishing. The various water areas give joy to those who love boating and swimming.

Lions Club Hears Talk By Head Of Kent Unit

Urchek expressed gratification on a previous visit here to find a positive attitude toward the center throughout the community and urged the continued support of residents and civic groups.

He served on the administrative staff at Kent for 17 years and also was an assistant professor of business administration more recently.

The university can help a student develop not only academically, but also in a personality sense, he pointed out.

He explained he tries to instill enthusiasm in his students when he first meets them and attempts to assist them in solving problems.

Urchek has been director of the center one month, succeeding John G. Hedrick, now at Akron State University.

Upon questioning, Urchek said he believes the next few years will see the university expanding its program here.

The club's board of directors will meet Sept. 11 at the Potters Savings and Loan Co. Annex.

Austen Moore will be next week's program chairman. James Sigler was in charge yesterday.

Twenty - one attended. Charles Haugh is president.

W. Va. Town Buys Itself

ELEANOR, W. Va. (AP) This 1,200 population Putnam County town, which has been operating on a $1,000 budget for five years, bought itself Friday night.

Since 1946 Eleanor has been in the hands of a group of private residents called the Washington Homesteads. Until Friday, that is, when the municipal government under Mayor Carol Hartley finally acquired all the publicly used property and utilities.

Eleanor was constructed as a "model home" of the depression and was federally subsidized for a while. After the federal government deeded the town over to the association there was no regular source of income.

William Walters, president of Washington Homesteads, said the reason the property and utilities were sold was to provide the town with some operating income as the association had no taxing powers.

Odds Are Against U.N. Viet Action

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The odds are against the U.S, senators who want the U.N. Security Council to deal with the war in Vietnam. The U.S. government has tried that.

The council discussed the war in 1964, but North Vietnam shunned the debate and nothing further happened. In 1966 a U.S. resolution for a new Geneva conference was shelved for fear of a Soviet or French veto.

One reason it's hard to accomplish anything here to stop the fighting: none of the Vietnamese regimes or groups participating is a member of the United Nations although South Vietnam has the status of observer.

Since North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front or Viet Cong are outside the United Nations, they insist that the war be settled outside. Red China, which helps arm Hanoi, also is not a member.

The Soviet Union and France insist that any settlement be reached "within the framework of the Geneva accords" of 1954 and 1962. They contend that the United Nations lacks even the right to consider the subject.

THE GENEVA conferences that produced those accords included North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, France, Red China, the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain in 1954, when the agenda was for all of French Indochina, and those nine plus Burma, Thailand, India, Canada and Poland in 1962, when it was limited to Laos.

The 1954 conference ended the war between France and the Vietminh. It left Communists governing North Vietnam and anti-Communists governing South Vietnam on the understanding that elections to unify the country would be held within two years.

South Vietnam, with U.S. backing, refused to discuss election arrangements with North Vietnam. War broke out again, between the Viet Cong and South Vietnam. North Vietnam and the United States became increasingly involved. In August 1964 the United States reported that North Vietnamese motor torpedo boats attacked American warships in the Gulf of Tonkin and that U.S. planes hit back at the boats and their shore bases. It asked for an urgent meeting of the Security Council "to consider the situation" created by the attacks.

The U.S. complaint seemed aimed at heading off any complaint from the other side. When the council put the question on the agenda, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson gave the American version and said, "Our mission in Southeast Asia is peace." He made no proposal.

The Soviet Union introduced a resolution to invite North Vietnam to the debate. The United States replied that South Vietnam should be invited, too. The council agreed to invite both.

Later events showed that the Soviet Union had acted without knowing the North Vietnamese position. Hanoi's brusque reply was that the council "has no right to examine this problem."

The council held no more meetings on the issue.

LATER EVENTS showed that the Soviet Union had acted without knowing the North Vietnamese position. Hanoi's brusque reply was that the council "has no right to examine this problem."

Against that background, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and 12 other senators, four of them Republicans, said Monday that Vietnam should be put before the council again.

Next day a U.N. spokesman said Secretary-General U. Thant still held to his well-known view — that the council can do nothing because some of the principal parties to the war are not in the United Nations.

WEEKLY HEALTH tip

There are no diseases caused by age — the mere passage of time. The shaky hand, the tottering gait, result from lack of proper exercise and condition. The forgetful mind results from lack of stimulation. The cure for signs of aging are proper diet and physical and mental exercise.

Final Reading Slated Oct. 16 On Food Establishment Plan

LISBON — A proposed food establishment regulation covering the Columbiana County General Health District will be given second reading by the County Board of Health Sept. 18. Third reading and the vote on adoption is scheduled Oct. 16.

Dr. M. K. Singer, county health commissioner, said the proposed measure should not be confused with the food service regulation applying to restaurants and cafeterias. The latter has been in effect since 1955 when the Ohio Health Department made it mandatory.

"Food establishment" means any place — temporary or permanent, stationary or mobile, or whether considered public, semi-public or private — where food or drink is prepared, processed, manufactured, packaged, stored, served, sold or offered for sale, Dr. Singer said. He mentioned groceries, delicatessens, confectioneries, bakeries and meat markets as examples.

Dr. Singer said the food establishment regulation has been under consideration by the county board for more than a year. A state health officer surveyed the county last February and declared a need for a food establishment inspection program.

County Sanitarians Harry Stockdale and Dale Wellington annually inspect some 200 restaurants in the General Health District. They estimate there are less than 200 food establishments.

Dr. Singer said the two sanitarians will be able to handle food establishment inspections to begin with, but a third sanitarian will be needed as the work load increases. Annual permit fees should finance the program, he said. The fee schedule follows:

Retail food establishments up to 1,500 square feet of floor area, $5; 1,500 to 3,000 square feet, $10; over 3,000 to 4,000 square feet, $15; over 4,000 square feet, $20; wholesale food establishments, $25.

Jamaicans Will Help Pick Apples In W. Va.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Labor has certified the need for 336 foreign farm workers to harvest the apple crop in West Virginia this fall.

The laborers will be recruited in Jamaica by the Department of Labor, a department spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman said the workers will average about $1.65 an hour and they will be given free transportation and lodging.

North America's first student exchange program began in 1610 when Etienne Brule went to live with Huron Indians. His commander, the explorer Champlain, reciprocated by taking a young Huron to France.
